James A. Campbell, Youngstown Steel Magnate, Takes Court By Surprise

LASHES EATON AS TRIAL IS RESUMED

Says Spectacular Battle Staged By Eaton Has Hurt The City Of Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 9.—The bitterness with which the battle over the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation has been waged was keenly realized here today as trial of the "billion-dollar lawsuit," seeking to enjoin the merger, was resumed in common pleas court before Judge David G. Jenkins.

Placed under four hours and a half of cross-examination, James A. Campbell, veteran war horse of the Mahoning Valley steel industry, gave vent to his feelings and poured out a bitter denunciation of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland steel magnate, who has staged a spectacular and expensive battle against the Sheet & Tube-Bethlehem combine.

Eaton's efforts to block the merger, Campbell heatedly declared, were disastrous to Youngstown as an industrial center. The verbal lashing of Eaton took the courtroom by surprise, for Campbell is usually quiet of demeanor.

The grizzled Sheet & Tube master was the first witness of the billion-dollar trial, which is over a suit filed (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES

Pa New observed a bird house setting high on a pole from a billboard on the Mt. Jackson road. At last someone has found a use for a billboard.

But you never knew there was a town in Lawrence county named Keele. There is, and Pa New is here to prove it, 'cause he ran across it yesterday afternoon. It is located several miles west of Wampum on an unpaved road.

And day by day the dates for the New Castle fair are coming nearer and nearer. Those "in the know" will tell you that it will surpass any fair up to date. Motor to the fair grounds on August 5, 6 and 7.

This is the birthday anniversary of Howe, the inventor of the sewing machine, and such an inventor certainly deserves honorable mention.

Tourist campers—there are hundreds of them. The camping bug has gotten a pile of new converts this season and automobiles with canvas covered bundles on the running boards can be seen everywhere.

Those searchlights trained on the Soldier's Monument, at night, are elegant. The gray memorial to the boys who gave their lives for principle is a fitting centerpiece for the city of New Castle. The fact that it is lighted at night seems more appropriate and indicates some of the esteem given those boys in blue.

It won't be so very long until Grant street will be ancient history. It is being repaved and no one is shedding tears because of the change.

Perched on window ledges and strutting importantly up and down the street, a flock of night hawks take up the refrain of "Springtime in the Rockies," every evening. The gathering place is located between West Avenue and Allen street, on East (Continued On Page Two)

New Police Force Record; Every Officer Is Benedict

History has been in the making in the past few days in the police force of this city, due to the fact that with the marriage of Officer Carl Lockard, there is no longer even one member of the force that belongs to the Order of Bachelors.

In other words, every male member of the force is now a benedict, having deserted the ranks of bachelorhood for the career of a married man, and there is no longer any opportunity for the unmarried ladies of the city to cast their eyes on the guardians of the peace because they are all busily engaged in their own home problems.

It is many a year since a situation such as this has prevailed in the police department of the city and there has always been, excepting possibly in the days of long ago, when the force first came into existence, members of the force, who were on the unmarried list.

Present indications are that this status will continue for some time, because of the fact that there is no present indication of changes in the force, that would mean the appointment to the force of a man, who might happen to be unmarried.

Donnie Schroeder Among Visitors At County Jail During Tuesday Afternoon

While Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague have been off the front page in recent weeks, except for sporadic appearances, they are still getting a lot of company and considerable attention.

Tuesday, July 8th, Irene's father, Joe Crawford, and her brother John came from Bellaire, O., to visit her in the county jail, and had little Donnie, her five year old son here also. They brought a number of packages of food and delicacies with them. They returned Tuesday evening but will probably be back for the arguments on the motion for a new trial which will be heard Friday morning.

Mrs. V. Glenn Dague and her two children were also visitors at the jail during the day.

It is said that Irene has succumbed to the lure of Lady Nicotine. During the return trip from Phoenix, Arizona, she steadfastly refused cigarettes on the grounds that she never smoked. Recently it is said she has developed the habit and now includes a couple of packages of cigarettes in requests that she sends out.

Local people send in food and fruit to her and baring the inconvenience of steel bars and iron walls the Gun Girl is leading a more sedate life than she has for many years. At least in the matter of regular hours.

Tries Suicide In Cell In Jail

Police Foil Effort At Hanging By Prisoner In Jail

BELT BEING USED IN FOILED ATTEMPT

Alex Zombeck, picked up early last evening by Detective John Young and Officer Kennedy in the vicinity of the fifth ward engine house, where he had been lying in a drunken condition for some time, apparently was desirous of ending his life, after being locked up in the No. 1 cell of the city for a time.

The first intimation that the police had was when one of the night loggers in the city jail saw Zombeck hanging by his belt to the outer bars of the cell and spread the alarm.

Lieutenant of Police Peter Hillers, Detective John Young, Sergeant Steiner and Officers Kennedy, Letera and others rushed to the scene and took Zombeck down.

He had his belt around his neck and then fastened a little bit higher than his head to the bars of the cell. He was little the worse for his attempt because of the fact that he had not been hanging long when discovered.

Mayor William H. Gillespie fined him $5 for the trouble he had occasioned the police, when he appeared in police court this morning.

Full Publicity On Naval Treaty Sought By Foes

Ratification Battle In Senate Centres On Demand Of Opponents

SENATOR JOHNSON ISSUES WARNING

Demand That President Hoover Turn Over To Senate All Official Documents

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The battle over ratification of the London Naval Treaty was sidetracked temporarily at the senate's special session today while the pact's foes sought full publicity on all the secret negotiations which preceded the parley.

A stalwart band of "irreconcilables" demanded that President Hoover submit to the senate all the documents, instructions, memoranda and correspondence, exchanged between the United States and its representatives abroad before the treaty was negotiated. They argued these papers would place a "true interpretation" on the treaty itself and therefore were vital to careful consideration of the pact by the senate.

No Modification

Administration leaders, protesting that publication of some of the documents might lead to international embarrassments, sought to modify the request so that the President could ignore it if surrender of the papers would be "incompatible with public interest." Senator McKellar (D) of Tenn., who sponsored a resolution, calling for the correspondence, declined to accept modification.

The first test vote between the treaty's adherents and foes will come upon the McKellar resolution. The administration undoubtedly will muster sufficient strength to insert the "if not incompatible" clause and then (Continued On Page Two)

East Side Store Keeper Held-up

Youthful Bandit Gang Robs Merchant Of Small Sum

POLICE ON TRAIL OF SUSPECTED LADS

Frank Mitchell, of East Washington street, who conducts a store at Superior and Allen streets, was the victim of a second and successful attempt on the part of group of youthful robbers last night about 10:30 o'clock while in his store.

While two of the holdup gang stood on guard outside the store, the third member of the gang, with a handkerchief over his face as a mask stuck a gun in Mr. Mitchell's stomach and demanded his money.

There was nothing left for Mr. Mitchell but to comply with the demand and the holdup gang secured between three and four dollars in cash, then departed with his comrades in crime.

Immediately following this robbery, Mr. Mitchell notified the police and Detective Young and Officer Kennedy rushed to the scene and started an investigation, which netted the authorities some excellent clues and there are indications that arrests in the case will be made in the near future.

According to the deductions of Mr. Mitchell and the police authorities, these are the same young men, who attempted to hold Mr. Mitchell up last Sunday morning, about 12:30 o'clock as he was enroute home on Allen street.

On that occasion a masked individual stopped Mr. Mitchell at the first alley south of East Washington street on Allen street and demanded that he put up his hands. Instead, Mr. Mitchell ran and made his getaway.

Croton Church Chests Opened; Net Over $1,000

Remarkable Record Is Made By Congregation In Croton

Upon the opening of the Joash chests in the Croton avenue Methodist church this week it was found that the Thank Offering already turned in at the Sunday morning service amounted to over $1,000 and there are still over 100 chests not in and upon their presentation the fund will be materially added to.

Great credit is due to this Croton District church and the untiring zealous efforts of the present pastor, Rev. Clifford S. Joshua, who has completed so many undertakings since his arrival in the city a little over a year ago to take charge of this church.

The congregation and pastor work together in such complete unison that great things will be accomplished in this congregation, which has almost doubled in size during the present pastorate.

Bus Lines Seek Right To Use Perry Highway

Bus service between Pittsburgh and Erie over the Perry highway is a convenient, offered in applications for certificates of public convenience, hearing on which was held before Special Examiner W. E. Best, of the Public Service Commission in Pittsburgh yesterday.

The Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Company which now runs two busses a day between Pittsburgh and Erie, seeks permission for general service and an extension to Portersville, nine miles north of Zelenople. The Welch Transportation Company, with bus lines between towns in the northwestern part of the state, wants a permit to operate a line between Portersville and Meadville by way of Mercer, Sandy Lak and Cochranstown.

Herman D. Patterson, Grove City, secretary and treasurer of the Welch company, testifying as to the advantages from the proposed lines said the route from Meadville to Portersville would be shorter than those now used.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 9.—The Senate is trying to get all the communications that passed between Ambassador Davies and President Hoover before the disarmament conference met. When they open 'em all up, they will be found to contain nothing but Davies asking for more smoking tobacco.

Pennsylvania Pair Victims In Plane Disaster

German Plane Goes Down In Baltic Sea With Five Passengers

AMERICANS WERE WARNED OF TRIP

Dr. John Burkholder And Miss Ruth Northrup Are Plane Victims

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
STRALSUND, Germany, July 9.—Two American travelers, Miss Ruth Northrup of Philadelphia and John Burkholder of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., lost their lives when a disabled German Lufthansa hydroplane bound from Stettin to Norway capsized in the Baltic Sea, it was learned here today.

Identification of the two Americans, who were among the five lost when the plane capsized, was made following a prolonged investigation which started when an air line official remembered examining the passports of two American passengers.

Hope that two survivors of the wrecked plane had been picked up by the Dutch steamer Spes was dissipated when the ship arrived here and reported it had been unable to save anyone from the plane.

Loss of life in the crash was therefore fairly definitely placed at five, the radio operator and four passengers. The two remaining passengers were Germans.

Hotel attendants revealed they warned Dr. Burkholder and Miss Northrup not to make the trip because of poor weather conditions.

When it was suggested they had better not fly, Miss Northrup jokingly said: "All right, then. Let's walk to Stockholm!"

Four Drowned As Motorboat Upsets

Eight Survivors Of Disaster In Lake Michigan Are Questioned By Officials

(International News Service)
GREEN BAY, Wis., July 9.—Stories of the eight survivors were obtained today as authorities sought to learn what captured a motorboat eighteen miles north of here last night, causing the death of four persons.

Because the lake was calm in the vicinity of Point Comfort where the accident occurred investigators were unable to assign a reason for the drownings. Twelve persons, most of them children were buried in the water when the ship foundered. The boat was returning from a picnic excursion.

The dead were: Alice Worder, 11; Edwin Haase, 10; Raymond Raymaker, 38, and Julia Zellner, 12. Six children and two adults were taken from the water alive.

Groups of resort dwellers, assisted coast guardsmen in rescue work and in recovering the bodies.

GIVES LIFE TO SAVE GIRL JUMPER

The first parachute jump of Miss Mary Fahrney, 18-year-old society girl of Oak Park, Ill., resulted in a close call from death for herself and cost the life of her friend, Bruno Schastek, former German war ace and expert balloonist. When she jumped over La Grange, Ill., her chute became entangled in the plane. She dangled in the air for nearly two hours while efforts were made to release her parachute. Then Schastek went up in another plane and let himself down to Miss Fahrney on a knotted rope. As he reached the girl her parachute loosened itself and she floated safely to earth. Schastek, exhausted, tried to climb back the rope, then fell 600 feet to the ground. Miss Fahrney and Schastek are shown here.

YACHT CLUB MAN LATEST VICTIM

(International News Service)
DETROIT, July 9.—A slaying in the Ocean View Yacht Club, which, police say, is a "blind-pig," today brought the underworld murder toll for the last six days to a total of seven persons.

A man, who has been identified as Louis Candea, manager of the Tremont hotel here, was shot and killed in the Yacht Club early today and Pohn Deiford, alleged operator of the fashionably furnished "blind-pig" was shot in the hand trying to prevent the slaying.

Candea was drinking at the bar when a stranger entered. The gunmen drew two guns and put the hotel manager "on the spot." He made good an escape.

The epidemic of gangster murders started last Thursday night when William Cannon and George Collins, "small-time" Chicago racketeers, were (Continued On Page Two)

Sir Conan Doyle Funeral Friday

Burial To Take Place At Site Few Yards From His Study

FAMILY CONFIDENT OF HEARING FROM HIM

(International News Service)
LONDON, July 9.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle will be buried but a few feet from his favorite outdoor study it was learned today when services in remembrance of the dead scholar and author take place Friday, instead of Thursday as had been formerly planned. The site chosen is but a few yards from his study—a work-place which was particularly his own.

There will be no church service but a full ceremony will be conducted at his graveside.

Plans Changed

There was no particular reason advanced as to why earlier plans for services at the picturesque Groombridge Village Church, were not included in the plans as announced today.

Accidents Rise; Fatalities Drop

Motor Accidents Show Increase During Early Part Of 1930

HARRISBURG, July 9.—During the first five months of 1930 motor vehicle accidents increased to the number of 2417 over those for the same period of 1929. While the number of accidents increased, fatalities decreased by fifty-three, and fatal accidents by sixty-one.

"For the first five months of 1929," said Motor Vehicles Commissioner Eynon today, "15,128 accidents were reported to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. Of these, 683 resulted in the death of 707 persons. For the same period in 1930, 17,345 accidents were reported, of which 672 resulted fatally to 664 persons."

During the first five months of 1929, 11,506 persons were injured in automobile accidents, while this figure increased to 13,549 during the same period of 1930. This is an increase of 2034.

"An increase of 100 is shown in a comparison of the number of accidents involving pedestrians for 1930 over 1929, but the number of pedestrians killed was a decrease of 55 for the 1930 period."

"The Bureau of Motor Vehicles hereafter will demand additional information as to the cause of accidents. It will be interesting to know whether the crash or the killing of a pedestrian occurred because of a mechanical defect in the vehicle, or a mental defect in the operator or victim of a motor car. It is undoubtedly true of a perfect mechanism is a menace, as it is also true that a mechanically defective machine in the hands of a perfect mentally—or rather, in the hands of an alert, experienced, careful operator, is not nearly so great a hazard."

"In the future the Bureau of Motor Vehicles purposes making every effort to ascertain the actual cause of accidents. It is our belief that mechanically imperfect machines increase the accident hazard, but back of every accident, as I have often said, there must be recorded the failure or momentary lapse of a human brain. Accidents do not happen; they are caused."

You're the JUDGE

Two brothers-in-law had not been getting on well.

One day Zwick, one of them, had occasion to go over to see Blinks, the other, and met him in the yard. The usual quarrel soon started, but this time it was more violent than ever before.

Suddenly Blinks drew a revolver and shot Zwick in the abdomen, inflicting a mortal wound. Zwick fell to the ground momentarily stunned, and Blinks entered his home.

Zwick arose, dragged himself into the house, and asked Blinks to shoot him again, because he was in great pain, and would die anyway. Zwick's strength was falling rapidly and he was put to bed.

But in some manner he procured a knife and inflicted a ghastly wound on his throat, from the effect of which he was dead in a few minutes.

When Blinks was put on trial his attorneys made the point that while it was true that Blinks inflicted a mortal wound on Zwick, Zwick was not actually killed by Blinks, but by a self-inflicted knife cut.

How would you decide this case? Make up your mind before you read the decision. (Decision will be found on Classified Page.)

permitted adoption of the resolution. This will give the President a broad excuse to ignore the request.

Senator Hiram Johnson (R) of Cal., leader of the treaty opposition, joined with McKellar in his demand. He warned the senate that once before it had acted upon a treaty to its sorrow, without knowing anything about the secret understandings on which it was negotiated. He referred to the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, affecting the right of European nations in South America.

Serious Situation

"These documents may be of grave consequence or again of little consequence to discussion of this treaty but the refusal of the administration to turn the matter to the senate creates a situation which ought not to be tolerated for a moment."

Some of the documents already have been turned over to the senate foreign relations committee "in confidence." Under this condition, senators have not been permitted to discuss any phase of the correspondence. Some documents, however, were never even sent to the committee in confidence. Johnson and McKellar demand all be turned over to the senate for it to use as it saw fit.

Senators Reed (R) of Pa., and Robinson (D) of Ark., who helped negotiate the treaty, have possessed copies of all the correspondence. They have offered to show it all to other senators but only in confidence. To this the treaty opponents object.

Swanson Opens Fight

With the question of the documents settled, the senate will begin debate on the treaty. Senator Claude Swanson (D) of Va., opened the fight for the treaty. He declared America's national defense was amply protected under its terms and that it should be ratified in the interest of world peace and because it halted naval competition.

A majority of the senate apparently agree with Swanson. The task of administration leaders however will be to keep a "quorum" of the senate—49 senators—present at all times, so that body may function. On Monday, 58 senators were present but yesterday, on two occasions, the number had fallen to 50, only one more than was necessary. Further defections may bring the session to a halt and force postponement of action until next December.

Washington street. The birds have gained famed for their warbling on the East Side and will soon challenge other warblers of the city. Residents in that section are held spellbound by the melodious notes produced by these veritable nightingales, who can be seen at the same place with heads close together and wings spread out. Some of these days they are going to inaugurate a new tune, 'tis said.

Road repair work is being done by workmen along the New Castle-Warrenton road. Pa New observed the other day. There is no blocking of traffic tho.

A young fellow told Pa New that he caught two large snapping turtles near Neshaunock Falls, last evening. He says that one of the turtles is nice enough but the other is too mean for words. This one has ugly eyes and if you should but look at him, he will snap!

Pa New is beginning to get the idea that New Castle can raise lemons judging from the number of plants with lemons have been seen by this writer. Passed a railroad station in New Castle and saw a rather large plant with several lemons on it. Down in a South Side barber shop Pa New saw a larger plant with about one dozen lemons. Later in the afternoon Pa New noticed a lemon plant in a downtown barber shop. This plant is about 7 or 8 feet high and has rather large lemons. This is convincing evidence that lemons can be grown in New Castle, Pa New ventures to say.

Young Pa New passed the bridge on East Washington street yesterday and saw three or four youngsters fishing from the top of the bridge. Pa New asked the boys how they were biting and the lads exclaimed "fine."

New Castle police force probably can claim a record for any city its size in the nation at present—with a police force in which every man is a married man.

What might have started a nasty fire yesterday in one of the local stores was quickly squashed. A pile of boxed matches was standing in the center of the floor, when some one walking by brushed them over with the consequence that in the fall one package ignited, causing quite a smoke and excitement among the customers.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., July 9.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, noted author and spiritualist who died Monday will "come back."

That today was the assertion of the Rev. Arthur Ford, Pastor of the First Spiritualist Church of New York, here on vacation.

Sir Arthur will have his chance to return Sunday night when the Rev. Ford conducts a seance at the Peoples' Spiritualist Church here.

"I harbor no doubt that I will communicate with Sir Arthur," said Rev. Ford. "I hope that I may do so Sunday. But knowing him as I did, I know that first he will be heard by his family, and then in time by the rest of us. There are many loose ends in the work we did which must be pieced together. He will speak to me of them."

claim show the new rates are discriminatory and unreasonable.

Would Add Two Million

Traffic experts estimate the higher charges would add $2,000,000 to Pittsburgh's annual freight burden, seriously harming the district from a competitive standpoint.

At a meeting here yesterday of traffic representatives of 60 iron and steel manufacturers, a plan of attack was outlined. The manufacturers will be aided in the fight by the City of Pittsburgh and possibly the City of McKeesport. The former was granted permission last week to intervene in the fight while the latter is reported seeking the commission's permission to intervene.

Complaint Made

Today's hearing was brought about by a complaint to the Public Service Commission made by the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel company and others against the carriers. It is regarded as one of the most important ever held in this district, as according to traffic experts, under existing conditions Pittsburgh stands to lose its position among the leaders.

In steel manufacturing in the United States. The increase on "short haul" rates on iron and steel products made in this district became effective May 20 under an order by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The order made general readjustments of iron and steel freight rates east of the Mississippi and north of the Potomac rivers.

Shortly after the Interstate Commerce Commission's order the Public Service Commission of Illinois and Indiana suspended the new rates, both having such authority over hauls inside the states. Chicago and Gary thereby gain relief. Under Pennsylvania law, however, the Public Service Commission can suspend the rates only after hearings.

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Upon the railroads involved rests the burden of proof that short haul freight rates from the Pittsburgh district are not discriminatory. Public Service Commissioner S. Ray Shelby ruled today at the opening of hearings on complaints filed by 49 Pittsburgh shippers.

The complainants received the full support of the city of Pittsburgh as the hearing opened when City Solicitor Charles A. Walschmidt stated that the city wished to concur in all testimony about to be presented by interested shippers, producers and consumers of steel. The complaints set forth that increased freight rates, many of which have been virtually doubled, place a heavy and unfair burden on the Pittsburgh district.

R. M. Collier of New York, chairman of the traffic executives association of eastern railroads, was the first witness called.

Exhibited were admitted showing orders given by the interstate commerce commission resulting in the changed rates.

Deaths of the Day

Mary C. Donnellan.

Mary C. Donnellan, 121 North Beaver street, daughter of the late John and Mary Jane Brierton Donnellan, died in the New Castle hospital at 11:30 Tuesday evening after a brief illness following an operation.

Miss Donnellan had been a telephone operator for the Pennsylvania railroad, at the divisional offices on West Washington street for many years and her faithful services and cherry voice will be greatly missed among her associates and employees of the road.

Surviving Miss Donnellan are a sister, Mrs. Ellwood Blowers of Duluth, Minn., and two brothers, Walter of Duluth and Maurice of this city.

She was a member of St. Mary's church. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mrs. Lavina Anderson

Mrs. Lavina Anderson, aged 64, widow of James Anderson, who preceded her in death eleven months ago, died at the home of her son, Lester Anderson, 613 Fifth street, Ellwood City at 9 a. m. today.

Mrs. Anderson was the mother of Elder Anderson, who died ten days ago, and it is supposed that this shock was too much for Mrs. Anderson, who has not been well for some time.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Viola Crea of Wexford and Mrs. Pearl Williams, Rochester, and two sons, Lester of Ellwood City and Harry C. of Rochester.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 from the home, 613 Fifth street, with interment in Locust Grove cemetery.

SCORES ATTEMPT MADE BY EATON TO BLOCK MERGER

by Myron C. Wick, Jr., of Cleveland, and International Shares Corporation to enjoy the merger. Although not filed in his name, the suit is regarded as the handiwork of Eaton.

Hearing of the trial was resumed yesterday after a ten-day adjournment which was caused by the sudden suicide of Leroy A. Manchester, chief of the Sheet & Tube legal staff, last June 29.

Campbell was called to the stand as an "adverse witness" by the plaintiff's attorneys. The verbal duel took place between the veteran steel master and Harry J. Crawford of the anti-merger counsel, was an epic in steel history.

Responsibility for the merger was shouldered entirely by Campbell during his testimony. He declared the combine was sought for the "safety and benefit of our company."

Campbell testified under questioning that he had talked with Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, regarding a merger with Sheet and Tube six days before the Sheet and Tube's proposed merger with Inland Steel Company, fostered by Eaton, was officially declared off.

Campbell said that he had refused to consult with Eaton regarding the Bethlehem proposal several times, because he knew that the Cleveland capitalist was unfriendly to the proposal and had organized "a concern to oppose it."

The grizzled steel master, although disclaiming knowledge of Bethlehem's claim in trying to secure Sheet and Tube, admitted that the deal was important to the eastern concern because of the addition of the Chicago plant of Sheet and Tube, which was included in the merger.

shot and killed as they sat in an automobile in front of a local hotel.

Police Baffled

Patrolmen Barney Roth and John Meitz, the latter a bootlegger, were killed two days later when two unknown gunmen invaded Roth's home at Hamtramck and shot and killed both of the men.

Climaxing the murders was the dual slaying of Joseph and Samuel Gaglio, brothers, and alleged bootleggers, whose lives were snuffed out by the bullets from a sub-machine gun as they were putting air into the tires of their automobile in front of a filling station.

The Ocean View Club is on the waterfront at Ecorse, a Detroit suburb and purported center of liquor running activities from Canada.

All of the murders have baffled police.

Paris Meals Now Include Wine

(International News Service)

JARIS, July 9. — "Vin compris", wine included, is beginning to re-appear on the menus of several restaurants in Paris where there is a fixed price for the meal. This is one of the good things that disappeared with the war and its aftermath. Now the High Commissioner of Tourism is backing the project for "vin compris" with meals, thus helping travelers and tourists as well as the wine-growers who find themselves with an other production of their produce and comparatively low prices this season.

At the same time, another wine-booster, Monsieur Prats, President of the Merchants Syndicate, has recently declared "Vin Omnis", what he calls the Standardized, rationalized, uniform liquid that is offered every day at the same hour on every table and in the same kind of bottles. He laments the fact that there are no more district wines, so little diversity and so little rivalry between the producing regions. Monsieur Prats is a great enemy of standardization. The Minister of Commerce tried to reassure him by telling him that the government proposes to spend a large sum on wine propaganda within the coming months.

MONEY—AND WISE USE OF IT

DELEGATES to the Kiwanis International in Atlantic City carried home with them a pellucid pearl of wisdom, the gift of Dr. William M. Lewis, president of Lafayette College. They would serve mankind by appointing themselves his disciples in spreading this old and wise doctrine.

His message was that money is a blessing only to those who know how to use it wisely; it isn't essential to success, many of the successful men of history having been poor men.

It is his hope that in days to come the schools will turn out more thinkers and fewer money grubbers. In other words, he regrets that the common standard of success today is money.

All of which is as true as it is true. Idealists have pondered on and uttered the same thoughts since the invention of money, if not as far back as the age of exchange and barter. But the world continues to turn out a little high-grade stuff and a great deal more run-of-the-mine. All one can hope in a generation is some slight average improvement, enough to satisfy those philosophers who are content with the slow processes of evolution only because they know it as useless to ask more.

IT NEVER PAYS

Fortunate indeed is the club or organization or town which does not have that individual who will take an unethical advantage.

On the school ground he is the lad that will always be found in the shoe for the inside track. He is the fellow whom the referee on the football field must watch for constant off-side plays. On the cinder track tryouts he does his best to get off just a second a head of the gun. Later when he plays golf, he is the bird who seeks a better lie, claiming a wagon wheel or horse hoof has left an unnatural depression.

In politics or business or professional life, he can never be counted on to carry through with associates or competitors. When they plan to do something as an association or as a community they always look to him to pull something that is just a little off form and he seldom disappoints them. Naturally he is unpopular with his contemporaries and competitors for his unethical actions pique them, but they are seldom hurt a great deal by his unfairness, for the public these days is just a little quicker than ever before to spot unfairness and to reason that if a man is unfair in his competition, he will bear close watching in his dealings with customers and clients. Taking unfair advantage never pays permanently.

10-POUND HAILSTONES

Some of the severest hailstorms recorded in meteorological history have been peppering the world this summer, adding to the other forms of violence nature has taken of late. Unless legends that have come down to us from ancient times telling about hailstones weighing hundreds of pounds are to be taken literally, the 10-pound hailstones that fell in Newfoundland recently set a new record in size and destructiveness.

Hail and lightning both are produced by a peculiar kind of atmospheric circulation exceeded in violence only by the whirls of tornadoes. In the typical thunderstorm, masses of warm, moist air from near the ground are set into violent upward motion. As such air rises it cools off. Some of the moisture in it is condensed as cloud or rain. That is what causes the familiar "thunderheads," great cloud masses which top such columns of rising air and in which the upward boiling of the air currents may be watched from moment to moment as the cloud mass billows out and spreads. If the violence of this atmospheric circulation is not too great the condensed water falls as rain, which is what happens in an ordinary thunderstorm. Sometimes the violence is greater. Falling raindrops then may be lifted by opposing upward currents into higher air levels where the cold freezes the drops to ice. Many such up and down trips, carried out in quick succession so that layers of rainwater alternately accumulate and freeze, produce the giant hailstones which fall occasionally, like those reported in the Newfoundland storm.

This year's prevalence of hailstorms is one more symptom of an increase in atmospheric energy which for two or more years has been showing itself in many forms in all parts of the world. Scientists attribute the demonstrations to a slight excess in the intensity of sunlight.

"IT WILL GIVE MEN WORK"

Appeals to local citizens, made by an official at city hall, to vote for a $3,000,000 sewer bond issue upon the ground that the improvements provided by it will "help Akron laborers," have started no justification meetings here. Within the last two years local citizens have voted for upward of $15,000,000 of bond issues, largely under the same entreaty that it would be good for unemployment, only to see little or no benefit follow from that source. The administration is taking its own sweet time to start the improvement projects, and those that have been under way have been only negligible in their effect upon unemployment. This being true, those who favor the proposed $3,000,000 issue should find some other reason for recommending it to the favor of those asked to vote for it.

The fact is that no city improvement ever gives employment to labor in anywhere near the degree claimed by an officialdom which proposes bond issues. Labor-saving machinery is the reason. There is very little need for hand labor. Indeed, a large number of such workers would only be in the way of the automatic diggers, concrete mixers, trucks and tractors which do the heavy end of the service. A steam shovel alone will do the work of a hundred men.

As long as there was a surplus of labor and times were booming this efficiency was winked at. The labor saving did not seem to lower the cost of building good roads or making other improvements. The profits were probably passed on to the contractors and material men. Now that many men are in need of work there is a demand that the benefits of labor saving be distributed. Ann Arbor and other Michigan towns are asking bids for road work on the manual labor basis, the use of automatic machinery being prohibited. The hand-built road will cost more, but more men will have jobs. It is argued that if unemployed have to be supported from the public treasury, taxpayers might better pay the little added cost of increasing the number of jobs through exercising a little less labor-saving efficiency.

In time this problem will be knocking at the doors of private industry.—The Akron Beacon Journal.

Tuesday morning John D. Rockefeller began his 92nd year. Mr. Rockefeller has every reason to praise the Lord, for he is, indeed, "fearfully and wonderfully made." Many old men have attributed their long lives to "not worrying." Few have lived to Mr. Rockefeller's age, enduring the hard work and strains such as he has borne in building his gigantic industries, in face of keenest competition, enduring savage criticism.

Everybody should wish him more years to enjoy the pleasures of retrospection.

He has done what the people did not know how to do for themselves, changing the natural wealth of the earth into gigantic sums of money, then using the money to fight disease and ignorance, at the same time organizing scientific production and decreasing the cost of necessities.

He has given away, to science and education, more than 500 million dollars, and his son continues the giving. He, or his son, to whom he is supposed to have turned over his gigantic holdings, is said to be the world's richest man. By the aid of compound interest, he might easily be richer than he is by a billion dollars, if he had kept his money, instead of giving it away.

Mr. Rockefeller's two favorite words are:

"Patience and perseverance."

A story, told by his brother, William, will take Mr. Rockefeller's memory back about 85 years. When he was a small boy, a so-called Indian doctor in the district started business by announcing that he would auction off "this bright silver dollar." The crowd, suspicious, did not bid, until young John D., aged about 7, said:

"I bid five cents."

"Sold," said the auctioneer, "give us your nickel, sonny, and take the dollar."

"Take it out of the dollar," said John D. Rockefeller, as cautious as anybody, "and give me 95 cents." Such a boy was quite sure to get ahead.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who died Monday, created Sherlock Holmes, a name that has become part of the English language, and died a believer in Spiritualism.

What, if anything, does he think of spiritualism now?

Is he selecting some earth medium through whom he may tell friends on earth that he is very happy?

Does he remember this earth, or anything about it, or is all that as vague as the months spent on earth before birth?

Mediums will get many messages, but we shall not hear from Conan Doyle.

President Hoover says, recommending the agreement under which our navy would be regulated by the wishes of England, France and Japan that it is "folly to think we can outbuild all other nations."

The president knows best, of course.

But England, when she had the money, had no difficulty in outbuilding all other nations, including this nation. We have the money now, why can't we do it?

There are good reasons in addition to the reason that Great Britain does not wish it?

If the British hadn't outbuilt all the other nations in battleships and swift cruisers before 1914, the former kaiser wouldn't be in Holland now, and King George wouldn't be in Buckingham palace. British ships blockaded Germany, and, incidentally, bossed us.

Suppose you suddenly learned that your kindred had used to walk a tight rope on one foot, her other foot held high in the air. You'd be shocked.

But you would not be as seriously shocked as ten million British old ladies, male and female, suddenly informed that Queen Mary actually smokes cigarettes.

RELATIVES

Relatives are people who bring little presents in to you. They're more like friends who come to call.

Except you've got to learn them all. An' know their names, so you won't miss.

I've got two grandmas, an' I know them both becuz they love me so. I know my grandpas, when they come they bring me chocolate bars and gum.

It would be awful not to know Your aunt Irene and Auntie Flo.

Ending Occupation Of Rhine Makes World More Hopeful

Americans Find Interest In Prospect That Europe Will Advance As Result Of Removal Of Possible Cause Of Friction

Europe is expected by Americans to find satisfaction in the departure of the French troops from the Rhineland area, bringing to an end the occupation which under the World War treaty, might have continued for several more years. Tributes are paid to the restraint that has been exhibited on both sides and it is believed that this latest event will aid advancement in European harmony.

Calling it "a historic event," the SYRACUSE HERALD declares that "whether we consider France's military grip on the Rhineland as an actual danger, or only as a source of international friction, we must hail its cessation as a development of cheering portent to the cause of peace security. In the light of that overshadowing assurance, we need not attach more than a fugitive significance either to German jubilation or to scattered evidences of French misgivings. The fact of supreme importance is that a potentially mischievous influence in the relations of the two most powerful nations of the European continent has been obliterated."

That evacuation of the Rhineland "is a great step forward in placing Germany again on an equal footing among the nations of Europe" is the belief of the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, which says as to its importance: "It follows closely upon return to Germany of control over the Reichsbank and the German railroads, of disbandment of the Reparations Commission and fixing of indemnities on a sound basis by the Young plan. With budgetary reform, it is hoped the Reich will be able to meet its payments regularly. Efforts for a solid understanding between France and Germany now have a good chance of success, and Europe is that much nearer a state of peaceful stability."

"The whole situation, even when it was best handled," according to the CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, "was full of dangers to the future peace of Europe. If the position of the two countries to each other in relation to population, and thus in relation to future military strength, has been reversed, there would have been dangers. They were aggravated by the fact that the larger country was occupied by the forces of the smaller. With the occupation ended, another period of recovery is begun. The war in its broadest sense is not over yet. Its settlements have not been made. The psychology of its after-effects has not been determined or revealed. When Germany no longer is supporting French troops, expectations with which Europe may look to the future should be better defined."

"With the exception of the Saar coal district, placed under Allied exploitation for the specific purpose of making good the avoidable wrecking of coal mines on the other side of the border," states the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE, "the Reich becomes sovereign over all the territory within its present borders. The benefits to the nations on the other side are less obvious but equally valid. They gain liberation from certain disadvantages. For one thing, they escape the need to maintain an irritating display of flags and arms on alien territory. They gain the hope of establishing those cordial relations with their former opponent which should have an economic value far beyond the mere possession, still more beyond the simple occupation of territory. The withdrawal of troops liberates the nations from a temptation. So long as those troops remained, there continued a risk that their presence would promote some effort at political action."

"The German people of the occupied territory had no experience upon which to base reproach of any kind upon the French soldiery," asserts the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER, pointing out that the signing by Germany of the reparations agreement, "brought freedom from the hated occupation some time in advance of the date fixed by the Versailles Treaty," but that "Germany's happiness was given full demonstration the day following departure of the French troops, by the ringing of church bells, closing of schools, the waving of flags and the booming of artillery."

Significance in the event is seen by the SAN FRANCISCO CALL-BULLETIN, with the statement: "The French kept their colors furled, their bands silent, and Gen. Guillaumat gave the Germans a farewell message, thanking them for their courtesy and cooperation. 'You wonder what Clemenceau and Foch would say to all these pleasantries, were they alive. Each one declared that the evacuation of German territory would be a crime against the French fatherland. Tardieu, with one eye on Mussolini, thinks the occupation of German territory would be a much bigger crime. He prefers a friend at his back, instead of a foe, if need arises.'"

"In the celebration of their freedom," observes the TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL, "the Germans seem to have shown a general loyalty to the republic, and to have, for all practical purposes, forgotten the Hohenzollerns and their dynasty. The republic gives all the signs of permanency and of the devotion of the people. It has found in Gen. Hindenburg a faithful President and has developed distinguished and successful ministers who have established an intelligent foreign policy, in strong contrast to that of the Empire under William."

"The best that can be said for the occupation," in the judgment of the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER, "is that it might have been worse. There will be better understanding in crowded, anxious Europe, with the disappearance of French soldiers from German soil. Nevertheless, the SCRANTON TIMES believes that in the main the French and other forces conducted themselves with fine restraint," that "in the area occupied by the American troops a friendly feeling had sprung up between the population and the Americans." The WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE, "with the best will in the world, no people can honestly profess friendship with any real favor while they are subjected to even a nominal control by the troops of a power that has conquered them," that "the best that can be expected of them is that they should work in harmony with their conquerors."

"The Germans are very glad to be rid of the French and probably the latter are well satisfied to return to their own land," says the BANGOR COMMERCIAL, while the KALAMAZOO GAZETTE feels that "Germany should be more willing than ever to cooperate in the mighty task of abolishing war forever from human affairs."

The RICHMOND NEWS LEADER is convinced that "the occupation demonstrated many things, and above all else, the essential solidarity of the German people," that "all the treaty left Germany is now here again, in full sovereignty, except for the Saar Valley, which is under administration by the League of Nations, with the main definitely under the ownership of France." The News Leader refers to the plebiscite in this region in 1935 and predicts a second "unification of Germany," adding: "The Third unification is down the dates: Will it be Austria, or Posen, which was given in large part to Poland, or will it be the renewal of the age-old struggle for Alsace and Lorraine?"

REMEMBER THE GULL

The latest fish story is how to get rich by cooperative shark fishing. The investing public is offered a chance to take part in such an operation by buying $150 a 60-foot section of a 600-foot shark net. The promoters state that sharks will be caught in this net at the rate of 100 a month. Investors are assured that an accurate account will be kept of the catch made by each individual 600-foot net. As a fee for their fishing services, the promoters require half of the catch of each net above one shark per net per month shall belong to them. Although the average 12-foot shark is worth from $12 to $16, cutting this expectancy in half, it is stated that each 600-foot net catching 60 sharks per month should "net" at least $600 worth of sharks.

Concerning the use of these sharks, the promoters relate that salted white shark meat is sold for $145 per ton and that shark oil brings 90 cents per gallon. Dark meat is sold over the counter for $75 per ton, while the fins a favorite delicacy of the Chinese, bring as high as $2 per pound. "The whole shark, as a matter of fact," the promoters state, "can be dried, pulverized and sold as fertilizer, bringing $65 per ton. There are eyes, used for jewelry and buttons, the backbone for walking canes, teeth of which there are several hundred in a full-grown shark, are often sold in curio shops for 25 cents a pair."

PLAN STUDY OF ENGLAND IN 14th CENTURY

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 9.—An historic research into the intricacies and activities of the English government in the fourteenth century will be undertaken by a group of scholars from the United States, England and Canada in an endeavor to "develop new knowledge of the political development of people," it is announced here.

The project will be financed by the American Council of Learned Societies and directed by the Medieval Academy of America, a council constituted with headquarters at Harvard. It will be entitled "The English Government at Work, 1327-1336."

These years were chosen, it is explained, because of the many phases of political turmoil that invested England during this period. In this short time the British Empire experienced both peace and war, was reigned over by two kings, and saw the accession to power of the young King, Edward III.

Those who will collaborate in the study are:

Prof. A. E. Prince, Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario; Prof. James P. Baldwin, Vassar College; Prof. Nellie Neilson, Mt. Holyoke College; Prof. Bertha Putnam, Mt. Holyoke College; Prof. Edwin F. Meyer, University of Colorado; Prof. Warren O. Ault, Boston University; Prof. N. S. B. Grass, Harvard University; Prof. T. P. P. Plunkett, Harvard University; Prof. E. H. Coast Guard Cook Is Versatile Sailor

(International News Service)
POINT REYES, Cal., July 9.—When you're done talking of versatility just turn to William P. MacLeod, cook at the Point Reyes Coast Guard station. William, from Michigan, took to the sea from Seattle at the age of 16, became one of the best topsail-men on the Pacific Coast, spent six years at Point Barrow, at the "top" of Alaska, on one whaling trip, and visited every port of call known to man on others.

Now, according to the guardsmen, he can:

Carve a ship model better than any artist.

Braid canvas withouts that would put any woman's tatter to shame.

Stage a one-man concert with his mandolin, harmonica and horn that would make Paul Whiteman weep with envy.

Build radio sets that bring in even far Madrid so vividly you can hear the bulls roar in the bull rings.

His latest sled, which would be quite an accomplishment in any plant, is made of the finest woods, with ship-shape inter-lappings of canvas and powered by a new Le-Rhone, nine-cylinder French military motor which drives an eight-foot propeller.

"Lonesome?" inquire the guardsmen, "why we've got everything when we have Will MacLeod."

a result of the inventions, millions of dollars annually and hundreds of lives may be saved, the bulletin states.

"Flies and other insects without lungs breathe through pores in their bodies," it is pointed out in the bulletin. "The new pest destroyer kills flies, mosquitoes, roaches and other non-lung insects by penetrating these pores and paralyzing the nerves. Scores of the insects can be destroyed with a single spray of the fluid and death is almost instantaneous."

Not since the first housewife swatted the first fly, the bulletin concedes, has there been such an important contribution to the war against disease spreading pests. Not only do house flies, the most dangerous of all the common insects, spread typhoid fever, but many other infections, as well, by carrying the organisms of the diseases on their bodies and transferring them to foods and drinks.

"Man's insect enemies are a challenge to the nation's future," the bulletin says. "Unopposed they would eventually bring starvation to the population and spread a hundred epidemics of fatal diseases."

The bulletin estimates that insects pests in America at the present time cost every man, woman and child in the country $20 annually.

COLORADO TOWN HAS ORDERLY DOG POPULATION

(International News Service)
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 9.—Few cities in the United States have the orderly canine population of Colorado Springs.

Imagine a city without police and jails and you have the parallel of a city whose dogs are so well-behaved that there is no need for a city dog pound.

The dog pound was abandoned in Colorado Springs three years ago, and a more modern and satisfactory method of handling dogs installed.

Instead of a pound for the imprisonment of vagrant, errant or sick dogs, Colorado Springs has two completely equipped veterinary hospitals. The canines are completely cared for by skilled veterinarians. In cases where destruction is required, the animals are placed in a cage installed in the rear of the city hall and gas turned. Extinction is painless and swift.

The dog pound was abolished by Chief of Police Hugh D. Harper when he was actuated by complaints of citizens who objected to the uproar of the dogs during day and night.

Sick and injured dogs are taken immediately to a veterinary hospital, regardless of pedigree. Ample funds for this purpose have been provided by dog lovers of Colorado Springs.

Strays are brought to police headquarters where they are held a few days, advertised in the newspapers and then destroyed if the dog is a mongrel, or given to somebody whose name has been listed as wanting a dog.

P. R. R. Outing To Bring Hundreds

Anticipate Record-Breaking Throng For Division Fete Next Wednesday

With only a week to go, leaders of this year's outing of Pennsylvania Railroad employees and officials comprising the Erie and Ashtabula division, today announced that indications so far point to a record-breaking attendance of railroad folk for the festivities at Cascade Park on Wednesday, July 16.

Perhaps no previous picnic of the division has been better planned than the one that promises to take the local amusement park to the utmost next week. General Chairman L. C. Gleason, with a corps of capable committees, has for weeks been attending to details which make for real success. Their work will continue until next Wednesday night.

A special train which will carry employees and their families from Ashtabula and intermediate points will leave West street, Ashtabula, at 1:30 a. m. that morning. Stops will be made all along the way, with arrival here scheduled for 9:25 a. m. Extra coaches will be attached to trains 424 and 475 for the convenience of Erie and intermediate point passengers.

On hand for the arrival of the special will be the E. & A. band, under the direction of H. M. Culbertson. After being treated to a brief concert, the picnicers will board special street cars to be taken to the scene of the outing.

Reaching the park, the division hosts will have dinner and afterward begin a program that will continue until the dancing has concluded late that night. A program of 19 sporting events to be climaxed with a baseball game between the single and married men at 3:30, has been planned. Featuring will be a Tom Thumb golf match between Trainmaster F. J. Perry and T. L. Bailey, road foreman of engines.

The special will leave on its return trip to Ashtabula at 7 o'clock.

Some suspect the new tariff is one of those successful operations where the patient dies.

Youth Confesses Casting Ballot

Eighteen-Year-Old Boy In Wilmerding Admits Casting Election Ballot

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, July 9.—An 18-year-old boy who admitted voting illegally in the general election in Wilmerding last November today testified he was instructed by Arthur Volpe, Wilmerding political boss, to change his story of which ticket he had supported. The testimony was made during a hearing in a contest over election of a tax collector.

The boy, William Carrano, who testified at first he had voted for the Citizen's party, supporting former Tax Collector James F. Richards, under cross examination by Richards' counsel, admitted he voted the Working Man's ticket but said he changed his story on the advice of Volpe. His parents were present when Volpe told him to change his story, Carrano said.

Richards is fighting the election of C. R. Shiring, the fight centering around a missing ballot box.

Attorney John D. Myer, counsel for Richards, said the lost ballot box was taken to the court house for a recount last October in a prior election contest and had never been returned. As a result, he said, the box used in the general election last November, the vote of which is being contested by Richards, was used in the May primary this year. The ballots for last November were destroyed legally by the primary board, he said.

What was the "wildcat currency"? President Jackson succeeded in crushing the Bank of the United States and giving great support to the various state banks scattered throughout the country. These banks issued notes which circulated as currency and which formed a large part of the circulating medium of the country. After Jackson destroyed the United States Bank these banks were encouraged to issue notes in larger quantities, and many banks were formed. Within two years $80,000,000 of their currency was printed and put into circulation. There was no gold or silver behind this paper money, and its value did not exceed that of the paper it was printed on. The panic of 1837 was one of the direct results of this wildcat currency, as it was called.

For how long a period of time does a West Point cadet have to serve in the army?

When a candidate for West Point enters the academy he is required to sign an engagement for service in the United States army for a period of eight years, beginning with his admission as a cadet, which means he will have to serve four years after his graduation from West Point. He may be discharged by competent authority any time during his course, however.

Are there any portions of the United States that are not surveyed?

In the heart of the United States are uninhabited areas, of which some are even unseen for long periods by the eye of man, the National Geographic society points out. In the forests of north central Maine extensive regions, for many months of the year, still know only the hunter and trapper. In certain sections of the high Appalachians live families of isolated mountaineers whose domains are seldom visited by outsiders. The only actual blank spots in the eastern United States, however, are in the swamp regions of southern Florida and in southwestern Arizona.

What is the number of people killed whose deaths were caused directly by prohibition?

The treasury department gave out official figures in the summer of 1929, stating that, since the eighteenth amendment had become effective in 1920, 190 persons have been killed in the enforcement of the prohibition laws. Of these, 135 were citizens killed by prohibition agents, and 55 were prohibition agents who met death in the line of duty.

Affectionate Hug Causes Child's Death

(International News Service) MEXICO CITY, July 9.—An affectionate hug by his father caused the death of two year old Mario Modiano in his father's tailor shop here.

Isaac Modiano, who is very fond of his children, picked up Mario in his arms and pressed him against his chest. A thick needle protruding from the tailor's coat pierced the boy's stomach, causing death before medical attention arrived.

Concrete Road Is "Soft Stuff" When Lightning Strikes

Plays Queer Prank With Road
In Armstrong County, Frame Finds

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Engineers of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways do not recall any agitation to have lightning rods installed on roads but recent pranks of a playful bolt in Armstrong county convinced them the rods wouldn't work, anyhow. Meanwhile, volumes of the science of electricity and physics are being overworked to explain the peculiar action of the lightning.

It all started with a lone locust tree standing eighteen feet from the edge of the pavement, along Traffic Route 28, between Pittsburgh and Kittanning. Lightning struck the tree apparently followed the roots toward the concrete road, and reaching the ends of the roots, proceeded under the concrete slabs.

Large potholes appeared in the concrete, distributed from seventy-five to 150 feet from the tree. The holes were cone-shaped, tapering from three to twelve inches at the base of the concrete slab and appearing at the surface from eight to thirty-six inches in diameter. Many cubic feet of sub-grade, the earth foundation under the road, were displaced.

No witnesses could be found. Division Engineer, T. C. Frame, at Franklin, in whose division the road

Concealing Assets Gets Man In Bad

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Charged with concealing assets from a trustee in bankruptcy, Harold German of Union City, Pa., waived a hearing before a United States commissioner here today and was held in $2,500 bond for trial in federal court.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against him in May, 1928, when he was operating the German Motor Sales Company and the General Motor Transportation Company, in Erie, according to the records.

AUTO STOLEN FROM PLACE OF BUSINESS

Charles Levine of 1009 Highland avenue reported to the police that Tuesday, while his machine, a Hupmobile coupe, Pennsylvania license, RG29, 1930 model, was parked in front of his place of business, 317 South Mill street, it was stolen by some unknown person. It was taken between two and three o'clock in the afternoon.

History doesn't exactly repeat itself. The Colonials were taxed by an alien racker, but he was a German—not a Dago.

The Broadway success of Aristophanes' comedy, after 2300 years, shows that moderns can appreciate classics, if they're naughty enough.

Several Accidents Reported To Police

Boy On Bicycle Is Knocked To Street But Escaped Injury

John Conti, 524 East 119th street, New York City, was enroute south on Pollock avenue Tuesday afternoon, when a boy riding a bicycle ran into his machine and was knocked to the ground. According to the report made by Mr. Conti, the boy was not badly hurt and he did not get his name and address.

W. Anderson of 736 Ridge street reported that he was enroute east on East Washington street, at Court street, when his machine was in a collision with a car, the license number of which he did not secure. Some damage was done.

J. I. Gallagher, 423 Hillcrest avenue was enroute south on Arlington avenue when a truck load of hay driven by a Mr. Lucas of Smithfield street, caught on and damaged the left side of his car, at it was passing his machine.

BIRDS CAUGHT WITH MIRRORS
Greediness of pigeons is to be used in ridding London of many of the undesirable birds. Men employed by the city to do away with 2,000 pigeons say that the birds are quick to seize any food before them if another is near. The mirrors are to be used to produce "the other bird" and so enable the men to catch them while they are greedily devouring scattered corn.

ACCIDENT PREVENTS SOLO FLYER'S ATLANTIC HOP

Near tragedy marked the take-off of Squadron Leader C. S. Wynne-Eaton at St. John's, Newfoundland, for Harbor Grace, where he was to begin a trans-Atlantic flight attempt to England in the Puss-Moth plane, shown above. The flyer was painfully injured when the ship crashed. Photo was snapped a short while before the accident.

River's Recession Alarms New England

(International News Service)

BOSTON, July 9.—Massachusetts is much concerned with a recession in the waters of the Charles river. The river, which is now at its lowest level in years, has been receding steadily since June 3 and is almost two feet below normal. Canoe excursions at various points along the famous river have been abandoned because of the low level of the water. Engineers are frankly puzzled over the recession and see as the only possible cause the increased consumption of water by recently established printing plants.

GLIDING INSTITUTE WANTED

The French air ministry has been asked by two prominent aeronautical associations to establish a gliding institute. They promise to assist the project in the way of finance, counsel and material. The institute would determine the most effective types of gliders, the best fields for gliding operations and other questions connected with the sport.

The bridge over the harbor at Sydney, Australia, is nearing completion. The structure, costing $20,000,000, has a span of 1,650 feet, and accommodates a roadway 57 feet wide, four electric tracks and two ten-foot footways. It is estimated that changes in temperature will cause a maximum expansion of 14 inches. The bridge is the world's largest of its type.

Would Be Suicide Bears Charmed Life

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 9.—Charles Caywood of Hammond, Ind., a would-be suicide, bears a charmed life. Recently he leaped into the Calumet river, but was unable to drown in three feet of water. Then he severed an artery with a razor, only to have himself sewn up. Next he tried to leap in front of a train, only to have a crossing watchman drag him to safety. Finally he took poison, but had his life saved by physicians who pumped out his stomach.

Children To Visit 500 Summer Camps

(International News Service)

BOSTON, July 9.—Over 500 summer camps throughout New England will throw open their doors in welcome to 18,000 boys and girls who seek the outdoor life of lake, mountain and seacoast during the coming months.

The number of camps and campers will approach record figures, according to estimates of the Boston and Maine railroad officials, who have prepared for the annual summer camp migration from New York, Pennsylvania and western points.

Fourteen special trains and about 500 extra Pullman cars and coaches are scheduled to move into Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts from points as far distant as Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, Louisville, Ky., and Richmond, Va.

Vacationists from New York and Pennsylvania will break all records for camp parties from those two states.

Two Sea Lions Fight To Death

(International News Service)

CARMEL, Cal., July 9.—A fight between two sea lions on the rocks of Monterey Bay proved fatal to both. One of the sea mammals, weighing more than half a ton, was washed ashore at Pacific Grove. The other was found dead on the beach here. The carcasses of both showed that the lions had chewed at each other.

Teacher At Slippery Rock Makes Hobby Of Gardening; Raises Flowers On Acre Plot

Miss Alma G. Rice, teacher of history and geography at the State Teachers College of Slippery Rock, Pa., has other interests besides teaching. One of her hobbies is gardening. She finds real pleasure in this work and spends much of her recreation time in this way.

A reporter visited her flower garden back of the main building yesterday and found Miss Rice at work among the flowers. The flower garden is not an ordinary one in size or in the variety of flowers. The plants and shrubs cover an acre of ground. Any attempt to enumerate the different varieties of flowers would be a task for the probabilities are that many would unintentionally be omitted.

When questioned Miss Rice said: "I spend some time in the garden every morning, but much of the work I supervise. I have a very good assistant."

Miss Rice was very modest about her share in the work, but it has been learned from school authorities that it is largely through her efforts that the school has such an abundance of flowers.

Miss Rice raises flowers and shrubs the year around. In the winter one will find her at work in the college greenhouse.

These flowers are used throughout the year for table and chapel decorations and for all special occasions. In addition to the flower garden, Miss Rice has two other gardens; namely, an experimental garden in which she tries out certain seeds and a vegetable in which is planted peas, asparagus, salsify, artichokes, and ground cherries. She raises the vegetables not only for her own use but also for friends and for the pleasure derived in caring for them. Both the experimental and the vegetable garden are located behind the greenhouse.

Vivian Duncan Is In Hospital

Film Colony Fight May Result In Duncan Sister Having Nose Operated Upon

(International News Service) HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 9.—Vivian Duncan, of Topsy and Eva fame, today was a patient in a local hospital facing a possible operation on her nose as the result of her encounter with Rex Lease, motion picture actor. Miss Duncan admits she received at least "one hard sock in the eye."

Lease was free under bail on a battery charge. Stories of the encounter following the "Progressive Party" at Malibu Beach, said to have been attended by such well known stars of the screen as Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tibbet, Virginia Valli, Charles Farrell and John Farrow, writer, continued to hold the interest of the film colony. Lease claimed the fight started over Tibbet's singing. Miss Duncan avers an attempted stolen kiss was to blame.

Brigadier-General Hines Made Chief of All Veterans' Affairs

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, July 9.—President Hoover selected Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines as chief administrator for all veterans' affairs, which were consolidated under the bill passed by congress last week.

Gen. Hines, a native of Utah had planned to retire, but Mr. Hoover announced he had prevailed on him to stay.

Do I look like an Enthusiast? I AM!

Listerine usually removes loose dandruff in 3 days

DOWN at the office the men under me say I'm a kill-joy. I seldom get enthusiastic about anything. But I want to tell you about my experience getting rid of dandruff. I have always had a good head of hair, and when I first began to be troubled by dandruff, I felt pretty worried. It's a humiliating thing at best. You feel guilty with those telltale flakes on your coat collar. Sort of ashamed to meet people. It's bad business.

Of course, the first thing I did was to go to my barber. "Nothing to it," he said. "I'll have you over that in a couple of weeks." You have probably heard that line yourself. Well, I let him wreak his vengeance on my scalp and hair with a lot of funny treatments that were a nuisance. Net result: just as much dandruff, if not more. Net loss: $12.

Then somebody said, "See a specialist." Well, what that fellow did to my scalp was worse than the great war itself. He thumped it. He beat it. He photographed it. He rubbed it. He anointed it. He baked it. He dried it. He fanned it. Net cost: $25. And give him some credit—he did get rid of the dandruff—but only for a little while.

Then one morning my wife said to me, "Everett," she said, "why don't you try Listerine? A lot of the girls at the club have tried it and they say it gets rid of ordinary loose dandruff in no time."

Well, sir, I tried it. Just doused it on full strength, as they say in their ads, and massaged the scalp with the finger tips. And, by George, after the first treatment dandruff began to disappear. Right away my scalp began to feel like a million dollars. After another treatment, I couldn't find any dandruff at all, and my scalp was just as cool and healthy as a baby's. None of that old itching and burning. Net cost: 50c. What's more, dandruff hasn't returned. Can you blame me for being enthusiastic about Listerine?

Enthusiastic comments like the above are the rule rather than the exception.

You can understand Listerine's success against dandruff when you realize that dandruff is a germ disease, and full strength Listerine kills germs in 15 seconds. Even the Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) yield to it in counts ranging to 200,000,000. Listerine first dislodges and dissolves the tiny scales which are the outward evidence of dandruff, then it soothes, cools, and heals the troubled scalp. The flesh tingles and glows with new health and invigoration.

If you have any evidence of this humiliating and dangerous condition, begin with Listerine at once. Remember that it is entirely safe, and douse it on the scalp full strength, then massage vigorously with the finger tips. Keep the treatment up as a part of the regular soap and water shampoo, or independent of it, until dandruff is under control. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Missouri, U. S. A.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 9.—Finding a dead wild turkey on the nest under which there were fifteen peeps was the experience of Harry Crawford, according to a report received at the Pennsylvania game commission.

Mr. Crawford, an ardent trap shooter through Woodland Island, near Dover, when he discovered the turkey hen. When he got closer to the nest he discovered that the hen was dead and upon looking under her found fifteen young wild turkeys. Mr. Crawford attempted to catch the young turkeys, but was not successful. Two days later Mr. Crawford returned to the same spot and much to his surprise saw a wild turkey gobbler moulting the peeps.

Turkey feathers scattered around the spot where the hen was nesting indicated that vermin of some species had struck the bird in the back and it died on the nest.

Urge Hoover To Speed Up Huston Dismissal Action

Congressional Pressure Brought To Bear On President Hoover

G. O. P. CHIEFS TO MEET THURSDAY

(Associated Press Service)
WASHINGTON, July 9.—Congressional pressure for the retirement or removal of Claudius Huston as chairman of the Republican National committee increased on President Hoover today on the eve of the meeting of Republican chieftains here tomorrow.

There was a steady stream of political callers pouring through President Hoover's office today urging him to take some action to prevent further party embarrassment and confusion in the face of the oncoming campaign.

Rep. Will R. Wood (R) of Indiana, chairman of the House Appropriations committee, and also chairman of the Congressional Campaign committee, upon emerging from the White house, said:

"I've been a friend of chairman Huston's for many years. I consider him a most trusted man, and I think it's a shame that he is in the situation he is. However, there is no use in his trying to vindicate himself at the expense of the Republican party."

Earl S. Kinsley, Republican committeeman from Vermont, who was quoted from his home as saying he had been offered the chairmanship, said:

"I was a White House caller. He denied that he had ever made statements attributed to him, and asserted he was not a candidate."

SOCIETY YOUNGSTERS ROMP AT BEACH RESORT

Youngsters whose parents are in the public eye dress and romp much as those who bear less well-known names. Pictured beneath a huge beach umbrella at Southampton, L. I., N. Four Year Old Is Champion Gardener

Just four summers have been seen by little Mary Olga McKee, but that has been enough to make a real gardener out of her. The little girl has a patch full of beets, lettuce, radishes, tomatoes and cabbages to her credit and is just about the proudest little girl in all this world!

When Mary's grandfather, J. W. L. Clark was planting seeds for a garden at his home on Euclid avenue, Mary watched with bright and eager eyes. Suddenly it occurred to Mary that she would like to have a little garden all her own. She asked her grandfather what he thought of the idea. He answered by giving the little girl a hoe and rake and some packages of seed.

With diligent care, Mary spent hours and hours in her embryo garden, pulling weeds, sprinkling and encouraging the plants to rise from the ground. And they did come up—large cabbages, and magnificent heads of lettuce, more thick than did the vegetables in the garden of grandpa. And why shouldn't Mary be proud?

ABE MARTIN

On Getting The Breaks

Today when we're hearin' so much whinin' an' complainin' about "not gittin' no breaks" an' "raw deals," an' "the favored few," an' "no business," I'm reminded of the ups and downs of firm-chinned Grover Mopps. Mopps came into the world literally suffocated through handicaps—a naggin' mother, six other children, an' an' easy goin' dad. He wuz named fer a Democratic president, an' later weighed down with a cumbersome college education, he wuz good lookin', physically perfect, an' had a heavy, rich voice. Then he married at nineteen instead of waitin' till he wuz thirty-five. With a young wife hangin' on to his neck he struggled along till he wuz thirty-seven, when he finally went to work. His first job wuz night clerk at the New Palace hotel, a position which gave him lots of leisure to further improve his mind, but meant little in th' way o' material gain. His wife gave up an' started to thumb her way to relatives in Oregon. A cannin' factory started up in his town an' through the influence of his senator he got the position of punkin weigher. It wuzn' much, but ther wuz a livin' fer one in it. He wuz now thirty-eight years ole, an' age when he should have been pullin' down $10 a week, but he never whimpered, he never cursed the party in power, or his early environment, but he did harbor some resentment toward his college. At the close o' the punkin cannin' season he wuz again unattached. Never once in all o' his struggles fer a foothold in life had he bothered his folks, who had moved to a fer eastern city. One evenin' after he'd been luggin' a vacuum sweep-er from house to house all day, he wuz handed a telegram statin' his paw had died. This wuz the turnin' point in Grover Mopps' life. His paw had willed him a fine corner lot across from the Courthouse. Grover Mopps had found himself. He soon sold the lot fer a fillin' station site at a princely figure an' soon overtook his wife at Warsaw, Indiana. She gladly returned to him. Through wise investments Grover Mopps soon became rich an' wuz often pointed out as one o' the principal points of interest in his town. An' perseverance did it all. An' now fer the disgruntled farmer boy. He should git a lot of inspiration out o' General Grant's early struggles. The ole General Grant farm is jest at the edge o' St. Louis. Long before the civil war—after young Ulysses Grant ran away from his father's tanyard an' wuz flounderin' around with a West Point education he settled down in Missouri to be a farmer. Many a cold winter day he would drive to St. Louis through slush up to the hubs, with a load of stove wood an' hitch in front of the St. Louis postoffice. Often he would stand all day in zero weather tryin' to sell his wood fer 50 cents so he could buy some ginger ale. General Grant became a great soldier—an' idolized general, president of his country fer two terms—an' he would have run a third time if they'd asked him. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

Just before congress argued itself into a state of exhaustion and passed a new tariff bill, that much-abused body took a few minutes off and put through two other measures that have been demanded by farm interests.

The first of these is a provision which will allow the U. S. D. A., which is short for the Federal Department of Agriculture, you understand—to set up its own system of farm observers in foreign countries.

This does not sound important, and maybe it won't be. You can't tell. The idea is that if you get quicker, fuller and more reliable information as to crops, prices and trends of consumption of farm products in other countries, we would not be at such a disadvantage in selling our surplus crops.

The department of commerce already has such a foreign reporting service, and a steady stream of news flows in from these agents every day. But farm people think that these reports are often too commercial and not enough agricultural. The commerce men have in mind the distributing trades, and not the producer.

Whether the new service will be any different or any better, I don't know. Very likely it may be. In any case, it does not cost very much, and certainly we cannot have too much information as to what is going on abroad.

The other new law is more immediately important to the farming business in several of its branches.

This is new system of federal licenses for commission men who do an interstate business in farm produce—vegetables, fruits and perishable products in general. All such dealers and brokers except those who handle very small quantities are obliged to take out licenses, which may be suspended or revoked for sufficient cause.

The commission business in fruits and vegetables is pretty well run, on the whole, but there are enough cases of fraud and sharp practice among dealers to make this new law desirable for the protection of shippers in the country.

Dealers are prohibited from making fictitious charges against shipments, rejecting produce without cause, dumping or destroying without reason, making false statements as to condition, quality or market conditions, failure to account correctly to the shipper, and things like that.

Needless to say, the produce commission business is not so happy over the new regulations, although the federal license costs only $10. But everybody knows that there are serious abuses in the business, the work of a few individuals, and it is better for all concerned that such abuses be held down to the very minimum, if they can't be removed altogether.

Whether the law works out well or not, the farm shippers asked for it, and now they have it. Which is something gained, at all events.

Eighty Boys Spend Busy Day Tuesday At Camp Phillips

Newer Boys Tanned Quickly By Hot Sun Rays; Many Take New Tests

(Special To The News)
CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, July 9.—Scout Camp Phillips, with its roster of 80 boys, spent a very active day with a program that accounted for every minute to the boys' time. The weather was very nice. Many of the new boys acquired coats of sunburn under Old Sol's rays Tuesday.

Morning inspection was conducted by Scoutmaster Jack Hulme. The inspection honors were won by the Dan Boone stockade. Dave Thompson came in second, with Dave Crockett third and Kit Carson fourth.

The boy receiving the highest number of honor points was F. Cochran, with 185 points; L. Davis and J. McKiven tied in second place with 155 points.

Boston a Tenderfoot
The daily instruction period was passed with high honors because many tests were passed. Bill Boston passed his tenderfoot test. The following boys passed second-class pace: Chester Biven, S. Rosencrans, Frachetti, Newton, Sadler and Paul Young. Second-class tracking was passed by Gordon Welsh. Paul Bartel and Tom Douds passed their second-class tests on signalling. First-class signalling was passed by McClellan, T. L. May, Scotty Lee passed his first-class swimming test. The life-saving merit badge was acquired by T. L. May during swimming instructions. Gordon Welsh passed the merit badge on woodwork.

The Indian village was formally opened today under the leadership of Hap Hawkins. Many boys signed up for the village and they will make it their permanent place of residence during their stay in camp.

The Dan Boone and the Dave Crockett stockades staged a very interesting game of football in the afternoon, even if it was a one-sided affair. The Dan Boone stockade made a sweeping victory with a final score of 23 to 1. Among the other sports in demand were golf, Hanchette golf, boating and volleyball.

A game of capture the flag was played in the evening. The camp was divided into two groups. Huts numbering from seven to six were chosen as opponents of the huts numbering from seven to 12. Although the different groups fought hard, the game ended in a tie.

Lewis And Aides Stand Absolved

Technically Guilty Of Contempt
Of Court But Will Not Be Punished

(International News Service)
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 9.—Holding that John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, and his aides are technically guilty of contempt of court by violation of the injunction restraining them from interfering in the affairs of district 12, but recommending that as their intentions were well aimed, that they be not punished. Master in Chancery Frank Alm Trauter of Sangamon county circuit court today handed down his long-awaited decision in the legal fight for control of the union.

Trauter's recommendations did not rule on whether the reorganization convention held at Springfield changed the status of the case, to preserve which the injunction was kept in force by the courts.

The court held that evidence presented against A. T. Pace and William J. Sneed was insufficient.

Bureau Must Know Address Changes Of Auto Owners

HARRISBURG, July 9.—Motor Vehicle Commissioner Benjamin G. Eynon today called attention to the fact that motor car owners and operators who have changed their address since issuance of 1930 licenses will do well to notify the Bureau of Motor Vehicles at Harrisburg if they wish to receive application for 1931 registration.

"Within a couple of months," said Commissioner Eynon, "the addressograph section will begin the preparation of forms for renewal of registration and operators licenses for 1931. It is impossible for the Bureau of Motor Vehicles to know when a car owner changes his address, therefore it behooves him to give us this information. Change of address must be made on Bureau Form M-18, a copy of which may be obtained in the office of any automobile club, notary public or justice of the peace."

"Unless we get immediate action from those who have changed their address, we will have a repetition of what has occurred for several years past. In other words several hundred thousand of those applications will be returned. It is a very simple matter to procure and mail one of these forms, and car owners are not doing the right thing when they fail to live up to the provision of the law."

Break Girl Of Smoking By Calmness And Skill

Cynthia is 15. Suppose she smokes and that she has been smoking over a period of several weeks. In case you feel no problem. That is your affair, not mine. But suppose you, Cynthia's mother, do not want her to smoke; suppose, indeed, you are distressed and shocked because she smokes. What are you going to do about it? I don't know.

It may be pretty late for you to attack the problem now. If Cynthia began actual smoking six weeks ago she really did not begin then. Her beginning may have been several years previously in ways which were not easily seen. She is one of the group of girls with whom she has been mingling. You may not have chosen her companions; she herself may not have chosen them. They probably just grew up with her and she with them.

Before Cynthia began to smoke she must have known how shocked and distressed you were going to be about it. If this knowledge did not keep her from smoking it is hardly likely now to make her stop smoking. If, however, Cynthia now is sure she esteems you more highly than she did before she began to smoke her knowledge of your disappointment at her smoking may succeed in helping her to stop. Otherwise the more you pour out your grief about her smoking the less likely she will be to break the habit.

Of course you and Dad can punish Cynthia. You can deprive her of money, clothes, food or shelter, and by so doing, you might, in one chance out of a hundred, make her give up smoking. More likely are you, by so doing, to make her deceptive and to make her avoid smoking only in your presence or when you are likely to know about it. In that event you have lost the child without helping her to lose the habit.

Only a few ways toward your success at leading Cynthia not to smoke are open. By your skill she may acquire a new group of companions, who are non-smokers; if you are sufficiently calm about the matter she may just find no lure in smoking by and by; or because of the influence of you or some one else Cynthia may choose to give up smoking.

Chambers Sentences Mercer County Man

Floyd Gilliland, Charged With Statutory Offense Gets Penitentiary Term

MERCER, June 9.—Floyd Gilliland, Mercer county farmer, who was twice convicted on a statutory charge preferred by a neighbor woman, was sentenced to serve from 18 months to six years in the Western Penitentiary by Judge James A. Chambers of Lawrence county, before whom the case was tried in the Mercer county court.

Gilliland was first tried in October, 1928, and after a sensational trial, was found guilty. He applied for a new trial on the strength of "after-discovered" evidence, which was granted by Judge Chambers. The case was tried again last October and the jury again found him guilty. Application for a new trial was refused by Judge Chambers and his sentence followed this week.

Gilliland and his accuser lived near the Lawrence county line in the southwestern part of Mercer county.

Haldeman-Chadwick Forced To Earth In Endurance Try

(International News Service) JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 9. — George Haldeman and Stuart Chadwick, intrepid aviators, Tuesday failed in their effort to set a new non-refueling endurance record.

Excessive oil consumption of their plane's motor forced the fliers to land when they were more than 50 hours away from a new record. Taking off late Monday they remained aloft only 14 hours and 45 minutes.

The fact that the fliers came down at Municipal Airport, 30 miles from Jacksonville Beach, where they took off, caused their descent not to be known generally for more than an hour.

Information from Jacksonville Beach said Haldeman was apparently still aloft, but at that time the plane had landed unnoticed at the Municipal Airport.

Montana Woman Lost 19 Pounds of Fat In 4 Weeks

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

When stout women can lose fat and at the same time gain in energy and vigor.

Gain in charm and vivaciousness. Gain a healthy complexion and have eyes that sparkle with buoyant health.

And at insignificant cost—Isn't it time to use common sense?

Please read this letter carefully: "Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana, paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts."

I was the first to purchase a bottle in Billings. I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce. I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 236 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks I weigh 217 lbs. And I must say I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends in fact have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc. or any drugstore in America.

Program For Dedication Of Fred L. Rentz Camp On Thursday Is Complete

Twenty-six acres of beautiful camping ground along the picturesque Slippery Rock creek, several miles east of East of Harrisburg, will be formally set apart for manhood in the making when ceremonies attending the dedication of Camp Fred L. Rentz at the New Castle Y. M. C. A. occur Thursday evening.

For the evening a program most appropriate to the occasion has been by association officials, commencing promptly at 8 o'clock. The dedication of the new dining-library lodge donated just recently by Mrs. Fred Rentz, will also mark the program.

Citizens Invited

Hundreds of New Castle residents, friends of the Y. M. C. A. and members of the various civic organizations besides the 70 boys now at the camp are expected to witness the dedication and participate in the general social period which will follow.

Presiding throughout the evening will be President R. J. Tully of the "Y" board of directors. He will open the program, introduce the camp boys who will contribute a bit of entertainment and respond for the association after the camp is formally presented. The presentation address of Mr. Rentz will come soon after Mr. Tully opens the program.

The Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church and an active member of the local Y. M. C. A., will offer the prayer of dedication.

Growth Manifested

The dedication tomorrow night will mark another step in the growth of the Y. M. C. A. summer camp, which started when the association opened the first camp for its boys along Lake Erie 12 years ago. The grounds were not far from North Girard, Ohio.

Discontinuing the Lake Erie camp, the association moved it to Muddy Creek Park, where for two years the "Y" youngsters romped outdoors. The next move took the camp to where it now is located along the Slippery Rock, 12 miles from here. Here the association rented the grounds for eight years, or until last January when Mr. Rentz purchased the site to make it a permanent camp.

Gives New Lodge

Not content with seeing the grounds in possession of the association, the Rentz family again manifested its interest in growing boys when only about three weeks ago the lodge gift of Mrs. Rentz was made public. J. F. Rentz financed the building of a well, which turned out to be an ar-

rian spring bubbling over with the purest of drinking water. The camp plot, 26 acres long, is located on both sides of the Slippery Rock, the creek running almost directly through the center of the property. Facilities are provided for a baseball, mushball and volley ball courts with a beautiful grove of trees covering the camp proper. To the east of the camp is an island which can later be developed as a part of the grounds.

The new lodge, painted a rustic color today by Carnegie Steel Co. workmen for the ceremony of tomorrow, seats 120 boys and provides a library room where boys may go on rainy days.

Members of the Y. M. C. A. board who comprise the Y's camping committee are J. F. Rentz, chairman; R. J. Tully and Jack Preston.

On Monday he determined to end his life, and slashed his throat and abdomen. Since Monday he lay without food, water or medical aid, until a neighbor, Frank Pentone found the body and the resultant search by police located McNab in the house helpless.

Elizabeth Parker of 224 Laurel boulevard which he took earlier in the evening from in front of the New Castle Drug company store on North Mill street, also those of H. L. Marvin and Floyd Lawman stolen on previous occasions.

He exonerated the boys caught with him and they were released.

Mexico Discourages Use Of Charcoal

(International News Service) MEXICO CITY, July 9.—To forestall the rapid deforestation of Mexico owing to the extensive use of charcoal, the government is considering a measure to discourage the common use of charcoal in homes for cooking purposes.

It is proposed that when a license is granted for construction of a house, the taxes imposed will be increased unless the owner agrees to install a cook stove consuming coal. The vast majority of homes in Mexico at present use charcoal burning stoves for cooking purposes.

In addition to halting the declining forests, the government believes the proposed measure also will aid in re-establishing the coal mining industry in Mexico.

General Martin To Forget Politics In Military Pursuit

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, July 9.—General Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, in a message sent here from Fort Meade, Md., today served notice on state politicians that so far as he is concerned personally politics will be taboo during the next two weeks.

"For the next two weeks," General Martin's message said, "I will be occupied in the study of problems of national defense in the third corps area as an officer of the Pennsylvania National Guard. During this period the usual preliminary work to a state campaign will be carried on by my assistant, A. Boyd Hamilton, who will devote himself especially to situations in congressional and legislative districts."

Mrs. Charles F. Etter, the vice-chairman, is now actively conducting the women's work of the state committee and is planning a number of visits to counties.

The message was a disappointment to those politicians who had expected immediate declaration from General Martin as to his stand in the controversy between Gifford Plachot and Francis Shunk Brown over who shall get the Luzerne county primary votes.

Druggists Warned By Colonel Wynne

Counterfeit Doctors Prescriptions For Liquor Are Being Peddled

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Col. Samuel W. Wynne, supervisor of alcohol permits for the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Delaware area, sounded a warning to retail druggists in western Pennsylvania to be on their guard against counterfeit physicians' prescriptions for medical whiskey, on his initial visit today to his office here. Upon his arrival he immediately advised his chief assistant here, William McK. Tonkay, acting supervisor of permits, of the appearance yesterday in Philadelphia of the spurious prescriptions. Col. Wynne said they were poor counterfeits, probably made from photographs of originals, and do not carry the water marks of the official prescriptions.

Several arrests were made in Philadelphia and an investigation is underway to learn the source.

The chief difference is that a low-brow tells you what he thinks and a high-brow tells you what somebody else thinks.

Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, said today he was not yet prepared to make a statement on the proposal to cut the price of anthracite as much as $2 per ton. He also declined to comment on other matters presented yesterday at the meeting of miners and operators, which will continue today.

The proposal of the operators for a price cut was put forward as a desirable policy and not a demand. It was understood the miners firmly declined to consider a reduction which would bring a cut in wages.

Checkoff system. The checkoff system of collecting union dues and assessments, for which anthracite miners have battled for 30 years, will be provided for in the new wage contract now under negotiation. It was reported today. It was said the agreement will be a compromise between the union demand for the checkoff used in the bituminous fields where the employer deducts amounts from the union dues and pays it to the union in one check, and the position of the operators that it is not up to them to collect union dues and which, under Pennsylvania law, it was claimed, they could not legally do.

Negotiations are being carried on for adoption of a plan whereby the operators will cooperate with the union in the collection of dues.

The question of furnishing miners with safety appliances and free air for operation of their machines will be discussed again today, as well as the demand for abolition of individual contracts and replacing men working on an hourly overtime basis with those on a monthly basis on idle days.

Veterinarians Hear Addresses

Hold An Interesting Meeting At Place Of Dr. Frederick Taylor

Meeting of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Veterinary Club held Tuesday at the home of Dr. Frederick Taylor of Pulaski, was a decidedly successful affair.

Thirty-eight veterinarians of Northwestern Pennsylvania and their wives were in attendance. The occasion opened with a chicken dinner at the Pulaski Presbyterian church, served by the ladies of the church at 12:30 o'clock.

After the dinner, the members of the club and their wives adjourned to the residence and adjoining dairy of Dr. Frederick Taylor, where the former participated in a very interesting session, while the ladies of the party played bridge and five hundred.

The addresses of the occasion were given by Dr. Dick of the University of Pennsylvania, who spoke on "The Development of the Dairy Cow" and Dr. H. R. Church of Harrisburg and Dr. F. A. Marshall of Indiana, Pa., also spoke.

It was one of the most delightful and successful meetings of the club held in some time.

Many Kiddies Daily At Gaston Playground

Misses Claire Mae Lindsay
And Margaret Tucker In Charge Of Playground

Girls' Craft Class Contains 60; Special Point System
Being Worked Out

Daily close to 200 kiddies enjoy the amusements which Gaston playground offers, according to Misses Claire Mae Lindsay and Margaret Tucker who are in charge of this city playground for South and East Side Youngsters.

Big Craft Class
The supervisors have organized a craft class. Since the opening of the playground on June 16 the class has in it some 60 girls. At the present time the girls are being taught to make mats and purses. This class meets every Tuesday afternoon.

Since a tennis court has been erected in the playground many children as well as adults have taken to tennis.

Daily many are seen playing tennis.
A baseball team has been organized recently.

At the present the Gaston nine is playing the West Side playground nine a series. Two games have already been played. Both aggregations have won one game and today the final game to decide which end of the town has the best team will be played.

Volley ball will soon be played according to the instructors. Horseshoe pitching is another sport which the boys seem to enjoy. Although the girls do not have as many sports as boys they enjoy themselves daily some by sewing, some by reading and some by swinging, see sawing etc.

A girls baseball team is being organized. When the team is organized a challenge is going to be sent to all the remainder of the playgrounds of the city.

A point system is being worked out this year. Points are awarded boys and girls in tennis, horse-shoe pitching, volley ball, etc. At the end of the playground season five boys and five girls having the greatest number of points are awarded letters. This causes rivalry among the children.

Merry Circle Have Picnic On Tuesday

On Tuesday night in the picnic grove of Cascade Park, 21 members of the Merry Circle of the International Institute for Foreign Women on Pennsylvania avenue enjoyed the annual outing of this organization.

A delicious dinner was served. Following the dinner the club members enjoyed the different amusements of the park. Tonight at Gaston Park the Friendship Circle of the institute will hold its first annual picnic.
On Thursday night the Square Circle will have its picnic at Lakewood Beach.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

AS TO "BRAWLING OUT"

If you cannot have respect for the man who is employed by you, let him out. If you do have respect for him, treat him as a man and a gentleman.
There is no excuse for rebuking, in a fit of temper and bad manners, a man who is working for you. He may sometimes deserve a rebuke, a correction, a reprimand. But never talk to him when either of you are angry. You will say more than you mean. Never call down an employee in the presence of others. That is humiliating him. You cannot do that to a man whom you respect.

"DESERVINGS"

This column prints few verses.
Mostly it is just common on this and that. Perhaps in hot weather, when the spirit droops a little, there will be a soothing touch to those lines from an unknown author. The poem is called "Deservings":

This is the height of our deserts;
A little pity for life's hurts;
A little rain, a little sun,
A little sleep when work is done.

A little righteous punishment,
Less for our deeds than their intent;
A little pardon now and then,
Because we are but struggling men.

A little light to show the way,
A little guidance where we stray;
A little love before we pass
To rest beneath the kirkyard grass.

A little faith in days of change,
When life is stark and bare and strange;

A place when our eyes are wet
With tears of longing and regret.

True, it is that we cannot claim
Unmeasured recompense or blame,
Because our way of life is small;
A little is the sum of all.

TAKING TIME

Perhaps the commonest mistake of most of us, especially those who live in large cities, is that we do not take time to think. It isn't that we do not have time; but it is because we use our time for something else. It is not easy to think things through, but it can be done. It takes time, leisure, solitude. Do you remember these lines from Emerson:

"We dress our garden, eat our dinners, discuss the household with our wives, and these things make no impression, are forgotten next week; but in the solitude to which every man is always returning, he has a sanity and revelation, which in his passage into new worlds he will always carry with him. Never mind the ridicule, never mind the defeat; up again, old heart—it seems to say, there is victory yet for all justice; and the true romance which the world exists to realize, will be the transformation of genius into practical power."

LEAVING THEM

Our insistence that "something must be done about it" is sometimes the worst policy we can pursue.
Often the best way to treat worrisome problems is to go away and leave them. It is a wise man who knows when not to do anything about anything.

A New York society woman is to give a fashionable "speakeasy party" in London. At which, of course, the favorite dance will be the reel.—The Altoona Mirror.

The average woman's idea of a mean husband is one who never raves over the new dress until he gets a bill for it.—The Grand Rapids Press.

AMERICANISM. Happy, dressed-up ladies at play talking about their possessions; obscure husbands at work, patiently paying the bills.

FASHION'S FAMOUS TWO DOLLAR SALE

FASHION'S FAMOUS TWO DOLLAR SALE

Bo-Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK July 9.—With the closing of the city schools the other day, 1,033,130 youngsters faced the dismal prospect of not having to study or do homework until September.

According to the Superintendent of Schools, that's the way the kids feel about it. They don't throw their books into the air any more, and turn somersaults at the close of the school year.

"Improve methods of instruction," says the superintendent, "have abolished the old conception of school in the juvenile mind."

If that's true I'm tickled to death that I belong to the passing generation. What a fine place the world will be, some years from now, with a hundred odd million male and female Ralph Waldo Emersons rubbing elbows.

SIGNS OF SPRING

And now we have the Butcherteria.

The Butcherteria is a butcherless meat shop where steaks and chops in sanitary trade marked, cellophane-covered packages. Government-inspected graded and stamped, are sold from refrigerated show cases. The floors are carpeted. The walls are mirrored, chairs, tables, reading lamps and current magazines replace chopping blocks, sawdust and multi-colored calendars advertising pigs feet and bologna.

The butcher-man with his gory apron, his cleaver and the piece of brown paper wrapped around the tip of the forefinger, on his left hand that he nearly sawed off, along with the chops, is headed for Oblivion in the wake of the wooden Indian, the ice man and the old-fashioned housewife who wouldn't eat the cake because there wasn't enough of the family home to dinner.

RELEASE

Another innovation.
Office buildings, pretty soon, are to be fabricated in shops, with parts delivered, ready to put in place, rather than built. In this way, it is hoped that the masonry trades will be put on the bum.

That ought to make Brothers in the masonry trade very happy. When they have no more work to do they'll be able to devote more time to meditation and study. In odd moments they can get out in their Rolls Royces or their motor boats and anon be able to scan their brokerage accounts with systematic care.

What a beautiful place the world will be, with members of the masonry trades, freed from the exactions of toil, loiling in the shade puffing their pannelas and meditating on Epictet-us!

All science has to do now is to strengthen the chins of the Society Bunch in the Sunday roto. If they ever develop the chins of those debates in proportion to their legs——lory be!

WOMAN PAYS

The Duchess got a yen for a lid advertised by a Fifth Avenue boot bazaar at $22. She hit the trail early that afternoon and by nightfall had located the same model chapeau in a

A THANKLESS TASK

According to conservative estimates, fraudulent advertising costs us five hundred million dollars a year.
That's nothing to get excited about.
One of the most thankless tasks in the world is safeguarding the bank-roll of the preternatural sap. He resents your interference, regarding your solicitude as a slur on his intelligence, and thus, clings to his inalienable right to make a North American side-show of himself at the least provocation.

There's another angle, expounded by the late lamented "Diamond Jim" Brady, who adhered to the belief that "Qualifying as a sucker is a great luxury—if you can afford it!"

LIFE IS LIKE THAT

I met a girl the other night at a party. Her name is Tilly. She sings.
Concerts. She wasn't very good looking and she bored me for an hour with moth-eaten anecdotes about Schumann-Heink.
She asked me if I'd call on her some time at her "stew-dyo." I said sure, I would; but I really didn't inand to go. She scribbled her address on a piece of paper and wrote under it: "Always at home TO YOU, unless actually out."

That's the way with life. If she'd been good looking and interesting she wouldn't have written that.

Coal Bids Received At Board Directors Meeting In School

Board Of Education Delighted With Newly Decorated Board Room

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9.—Coal bids for the year 1929-30 was about $880.00 eight hundred and eighty dollars less in the Ellwood City schools than of the year previous, according to the report received by the Board of Education at their meeting last night in the Lincoln building.

Following this report which included the interesting fact that 49 tons less coal was used at this time, also that to date including all buildings in the survey, there still remains 146 tons ready to be used for next term.

In the year 1928-29 the seven buildings were heated with 1,136 tons of coal, the year following it took 1,081 tons to heat the same buildings. This is all due to care and investigation of different coal mines by the board, and it is giving them money for the sinking fund.

The coal bids received last night, for furnishing coal this winter, were discussed at length and resulted in giving the Marwood Coal company the contract for all run of the mine at $2.73, while Aleck Baney is to furnish the egg coal from his mine at $2.90 a ton. Other bidders for the contract were James E. Guy, Schrecongost Coal company, Seidel Coal and Builders Supply, and Home Coal company.

It was decided to send for samples before authorizing the painters to continue decorating the lobby. The discussion of decorating rooms brought the boards attention to the beautifully decorated room furnished for their own use. This room has been decorated in the true "sunshine" manner with its drop ceiling of cream, which brings out the masterful beauty of the Abraham Lincoln portrait, hung near the entrance to the hall. Needless to say the men were pleased with the splendid work of this interior decorator who proved to be none other than the janitor.

It was decided to authorize the board secretary, Raymond Mattix, to send a vote of thanks to the Women's club in appreciation of their donation of seventy five dollars for the shrub fund.

A request was presented from the Italian Catholic church members, that they might use a portion of the school property, in order that they have a celebration with fireworks and ice-cream. The request for the use of the property was granted with the provision that they submit to borough regulations getting council's permission for setting off fire works.

The final tax report was received from the Ewing Park tax collector, Mr. Walker, for 1929, along with the exoneration list.

"Vacations-Later" Say City Employees

Chief H. T. Plante Comes Forth With Well Advised Plans For August

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9.—Just what shall we do for this summer's vacation? Just where to go, if the question that many of our fellow employees are asking. And the next question is—When? Not so, the members of the police force. Although the chief, William C. Morrison, stands back while other members of the force choose the two weeks most fitted for their own activities.

Now there is Officer O. C. White, who has already enjoyed his two weeks, starting June 15. He took short motor trips, visiting friends and relatives.

Officer James A. Hayes began his vacation on Monday and is touring Buffalo, Niagara Falls and probably parts of Canada during his two weeks' stay.

Officer E. P. Hartman plans to take the first two weeks of August.

Mr. Plante, local commander of the Spanish war veterans, has been appointed delegate to attend their convention at Philadelphia. Mrs. Plante has been chosen delegate from the auxiliary of that organization. Mr. and Mrs. Plante will first go to the convention at Philadelphia and from there drive to New Jersey, New York City, Albany and through a portion of Canada before returning to this city.

INTERLACHEN CLUB, MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 9.—Twenty-four hours hence, the boys will be forced to stop their guessing and begin doing their explaining. Before another sun is verging upon the meridian much that is now vague and obscure will be made as obvious as a hack driver's welcome. By Saturday night, all will be reviewed.

But this is only the day before, not the morning after the most theatrical of all the national open golf championships and so Mr. Robert T. Jones, the gentlemanly, is surprised to be the ultimate winner with Mr. Walter Hagen, the gentlemanly, a highly esteemed second choice. They are said to hold Jones at odds of 7 to 5 which is not a short price. It is downright abrupt.

Hagen is Good
Hagen, they say, is 4 to 1 after doing 32 for the first nine holes again yesterday. The winner therefore, ought to be either the man who is great or the man who only used to be great. A summary of a golf hole—almost any golf hole and almost any time. It might be Hagen, particularly the newer and better Hagen imbued with the spirit of uplift and altogether a man of high purpose or something as to that, it might be almost any one of the 147 announced starters.

For it will be the man who for three days by the clock and several two holes by the score card, can play this Interlachen golf course as it was designed to be played, namely, with a steel tape measure. Those lashing, slashing wood shots from the tee must be dropped on fairways that were apparently laid out by a man with a diabolical sense of economy. They place a heavy premium on distance and an absolute burden upon accuracy, so that many a golfer finds himself playing the game as old Abner Doubleday used to play baseball; i. e., the first bounce is out.

Many Hazards
By this, I mean to suggest that the bounce in question very often is out in the rough, a feature of this golf course that deserves, and, in fact, eminently earns a powerful dissertation all by itself. To dispose of the matter succinctly, they seem to have erred on the side of liberality in this connection. They seem to have roughened this rough. It is high, wide and horrid. It rises without warning at the edge of the fairway and like a thief in the night, it lurks there in ambush and swiftly claims the unwary for its own.

However, if the long wood shots must be fool-proof, the second shot demands a control no less meticulous in its nicety. The velvety greens are minute and the insidious menace of the spider's web knows traps of no finer ingenuity. In brief, Interlachen asks for a series of golf shots and by the looks of things, it will get them from practically nobody.

Jones can do it. He has everything to lose in this tournament except the thing he can never lose, prestige, and all he can win is world-wide recognition as the man the world has recognized him to be these several years—the greatest of all golfers. The first two-hole man England has known in 40 years, as a result of his recent victories at St. Andrews and Hoy Lake, he can break all records by repeating his 1929 performance in this championship, so the burden of proof will be upon him tomorrow.

Perfect Shots
But this won't stop him from trying to hit the perfect golf shot every time he steps up to the ball and so it may be that his very temerity on a course like this will be his undoing. Just the same, it is a course that demands the very thing that Jones can supply, distance and accuracy.

If Hagen is hitting the shots he knows, Interlachen will find him immune to its hazards, too. If he isn't—farewell, Posti. When Hagen is wild, the cougar, by comparison, becomes domesticated. Gene Sarazen, a fine iron player, faces a bit of the same problem, since control is something that is liable to desert him like a false friend. Diegel hits a lone ball but his subsequent lead him prey to painful and often protracted inaccuracy. It isn't the kind of a course to command itself one of Diegel's whimsical tendencies. As for Bill Mehlhorn, it is liable to catch up with him midway through the first round and ride him like a hag for the rest of the tournament. It is a Von Elm course, as any layout is likely to be. George either wins or loses his tournaments on the greens.

It won't be a great source of comfort to Horton Smith, with his tendency to play his long irons neither wisely nor too well and, as for Johnny Farrell, it would seem that he hasn't the length to get away with a title on these links. Densmore Shute, with his precise spoon play, has distinctly possibilities, however. So, of course, has any one of a dozen others, including Ed Dudley.

There is no great secret, in fact, in excluding Henry Clui and "Wifty" Cox, who scored a pair of record 69's yesterday. The law says that they don't have to refuse to do this again and anybody who links up a 69 with a few rounds in the moderate seventies can win this championship. In fact, such a man probably will win it. Who is he to be? I know a hundred men who can do it. But there are only one or two who, under the lash, will do it, right out there before your eyes. One of them is a probability. His name is Jones. At least three more are distinct possibilities. Their names are Hagen, Sarazen, etc., but why go on?

The possibilities are almost limitless. The probabilities almost negligible. Only the events of the ensuing three days can furnish the answer.

Secretary Adams Will Pilot Yacht In Big Test Race

(International News Service)
NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—Two of America's most famous racing rivals will hook up in bitter combat today when Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, at the wheel of the Boston sloop Yankee, takes on his old foe, George Nichols, skipper of the Morgan-owned Westward.

The winning boat today will have made a long leap toward the coveted honor of defending the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth Shamrock.

This will be the third series of elimination races being held on the open sea off Newport for the purpose of selecting the American defender from among the four candidates—Westward, Yankee, Enterprise and Whirlwind. It promises to be a knock-down-and-drag-out battle, because it will have for its background an old and undying grudge.

It has been the ambition of George Nichols' life to achieve the honor of defending the America's cup. As skipper of Yankee in 1920 he thought he had won that right in the elimination trials but was thwarted by a Harbort sloop named Resolute, and at the wheel of the Resolute was Charles Francis Adams, the man Nichols must beat today if he is to see his pet ambition realized.

Local Golfers At Schenley Links

Twaddle, West And Nelson Represent New Castle In Public Links Qualifying

William "Hippo" Twaddle, Ollie West and Art Nelson, local well known Public Links golfers and members of the Municipal Course, were among the golfers seeking to qualify yesterday at the Schenley Links in Pittsburgh. The boys were qualifying for the right to play in the National Public Links tourney to be held in Florida.

Carl Kauffman, three-times winner of the right to represent Western Pennsylvania, will be one of the golfers to go to Florida, and so will Andy Swedka, Mike Gallo, and Carl Lundgren, go to the tourney. They were the four qualifiers. Carl Kauffman, defending champion barely managed to get under the wire with a 137 for 36-holes.

Twaddle had the best score of the New Castle men at Pittsburgh turning in 87 and 61 for the 36-holes, for a combined 148. Art Nelson had one lower than Twaddle with a 169. Ollie West after taking an 83 in the first 18-holes withdrew.

It was the first time that New Castle was ever represented in the Public Links tourney and the boys played splendid golf.

Tobias Laid Up For Long Time

Injury To Hand May Keep Him On Shelf For Month Or More Doctors Say

LOSES BOUT AT YANKEE STADIUM

Indications are that the Phil Tobias-Frenchy Belanger boxing bout which was scheduled for July 10, one week ago Monday night will have to be postponed for some time as Bob Levy has notified attaches of the Jolly bowl that physicians do not know when Tobias will be ready for action.

In addition to losing the bout with Belanger, the Brooklyn flyweight has been forced off the Al Singer-Sammy Mandell card. He was to have received $2,500, it is understood for fighting on the card.

The bout has not been cancelled. Rather it has been postponed as the Pennsylvania State Athletic commission has been notified of Tobias' injury and before he can box any other place in Pennsylvania he will be asked to honor his agreement here as they are in possession of the state commission.

Levy is known here as a square-shooter and he really wants Tobias to fight Belanger as a victory would open the way for Phil Tobias in the state. Yesterday Ed. Fritz telegraphed Levy in an effort to determine when Tobias would be ready for action and the following Western Union telegram dated Brooklyn and signed by Levy followed:

Here's The Telegram
"Unable to tell yet when Tobias' hand will heal. Two doctors order one month and six months rest respectively. Am more disappointed than you as Phil lost his greatest opportunity. A championship match with Wolgast in the semi-final of the Singer-Mandell bout at Yankee Stadium July 17 through injury. Positively want Belanger match when ready."

Promoter Jolly had pinned hope on the Tobias-Belanger match. He and other attaches realized it was something out of the ordinary in flyweight battles as Phil had been trying to get in the select upper crust and it appeared as though he would when Belanger accepted the fight with him here.

The Redskins have had more bad luck than a fly trying to escape a swatter by detouring through a spider web.

So many of the boys have been sick that nowadays they come up to bat swinging a couple of fever thermometers.

The Tribe's injured list looks like the casualty reports of the battle of the Marne multiplied by two.

The worst thing about zero baseball is that it just makes the fans hotter.

But cheer up. The Tribe may start winning almost any month now.

MUSHBALL LEAGUE

There were quite a few startling upsets in the Mercantile league as the teams showed off on the second half of the schedule last night. The biggest upset of the dope bucket came when the News Slugs bested the Richmans 6 to 1 at the Radiator field. The Firemen ate up the Spencers 8 to 4. The Bankers took one on the chin from the Wampus team and the Phalanx lost by forfeit to the Haney team.

Tonight at 8 o'clock at the Penn-Olio Electric building the managers of the New Castle mushball league will have a little get-together meeting and all managers are asked to try and be present. Plans for the second half of the season will be talked over and the Wampus team will likely get the franchise dropped by the Post Office.

Rosenbloom Seeks To Give Up Title

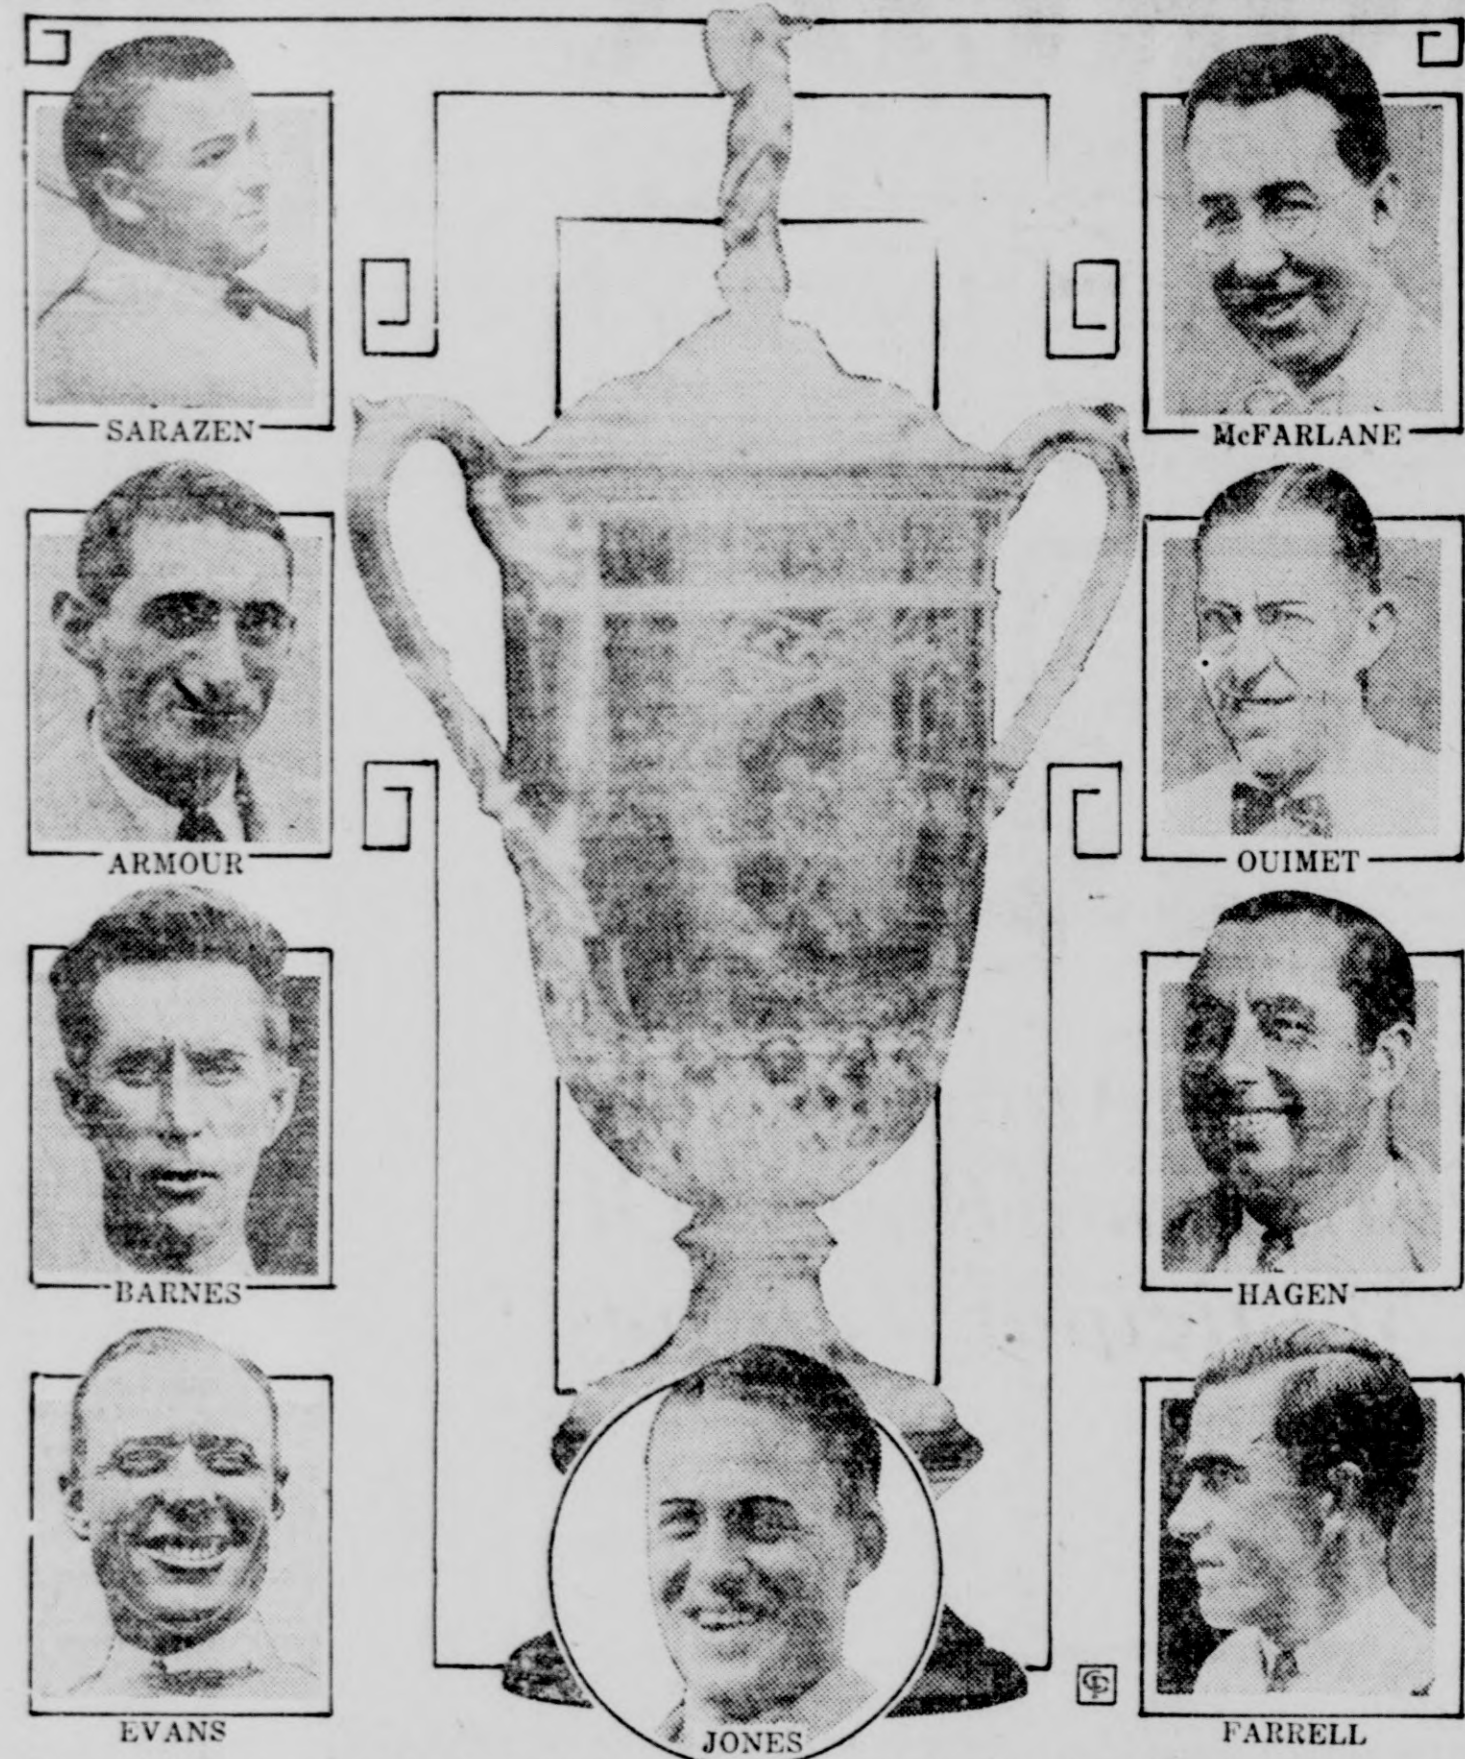

NEW YORK, July 9.—Maxie Rosenbloom, newly crowned world's light heavyweight champion, intends to ask the New York commission to permit him to relinquish the title. It was reported today. Rosenbloom planned to take this step because he said he could not sign up for fights while champion as readily as when merely a contender.

He plans to give up the title and fight as a heavyweight. The New York commission having refused him permission to fight heavyweights while holding the light heavyweight title, he said.

Prize Fighter Is Killed In Brawl

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—Shot through the heart, Thomas Payne, 28, a heavyweight prize fighter known as Battling Murray, was murdered early Tuesday in the Mission District after a drinking party with three companions.

Near the scene of the shooting, police arrested Fred Burns, 26, an ex-convict, J. Craig, 38, and John Ryan, 26, and held them on suspicion of murder.

They denied slaying Payne, and said he was shot by an unidentified man in an argument over the ownership of a cap, which Payne was said to have taken by mistake in leaving a "speakeasy" where the quartet had been spending the evening.

Mr. Lingie, slain newspaper reporter of Chicago, evidently never read Washington's message about entangling alliances. — The Indianapolis Star.

V. F. W. Prepares To Aid Comrades With Pensions

Will Establish Service Bureau
For Disabled Veterans Of District

PRESENT BILL IS
RESULTS OF EFFORT

Three Year Battle Started At National Convention In 1927 Is Victorious

Commander James A. Bell of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, stated today that a temporary service bureau, to aid those disabled veterans who will benefit under the new pension act passed last week by Congress and already signed by President Hoover, will be opened as soon as the necessary blanks can be procured by the post.

The pension bill just passed by Congress was first conceived and proposed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at their national encampment held at Providence in 1927. It has been the backbone of the V. F. W. legislative program for more than three years. The vision of V. F. W. leaders has given consistent support to this idea when all other veterans organizations ignored its potential value and need. Exclusively through V. F. W. efforts, this service pension plans was popularized to the point where Congress became pension minded.

After efforts had been made to push through another measure which did not meet the approval of President Hoover, the bill of Congressman J. Howard Swick, a member of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of this city, became the measure which was finally adopted after changes had been made in some degree.

As soon as applications blanks are available, the Harry L. McBride post will be advised of the fact and will receive a supply of blanks to carry on the work by them in New Castle.

A section of railroad siding is also included in the writ.

Value of the property is given at $8,815.

Both men sustained injuries about the face and head, when they came together, while running at top speed.

Accident Victim Leaves Hospital

Frank Stanko of 634 Crescent avenue, Ellwood City, who was injured on June 25, when a part of the ditch along the right of way of the A. T. and T. Co. caved in, has recovered sufficiently to return to his home from the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Stanko sustained severe bruises and lacerations but has practically recovered from the effects of his injuries.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things, around New Castle

While the matter has not yet been called to Mr. Ripley's attention you can "Believe It Or Not", but there are two "original" drafts of the United States Constitution. And according to C. B. Randall, well known book specialist, the government has not the original original. The copy it has is a second draft, made on parchment so that it might be better preserved.

The first draft of the Constitution, the one finally agreed upon by the Constitutional delegates, was written on heavy hand made paper and was transcribed by one of the delegates from Vermont, Eldredge, who was secretary of the convention. Realizing that the document would some day be of historical value Eldredge suggested that it be copied upon parchment so that the years would not destroy it. This was done.

The gentleman from Vermont being a rather thrifty soul, and perhaps a collector by nature, kept the draft on the heavy paper and this has been handed down through the Eldredge family until today. At the present time the document is in a safe deposit vault in New York City according to Mr. Randall and is for sale for a price and a condition.

The price is $500,000.00 and the condition is that the purchaser present the document to the government. The Eldredge clan has never yet got to the place where it will give the document to the government, but insists that whoever purchases it, do so. One offer of a million dollars has been received for it, providing there was no string attached to the sale.

In his experience in books Mr. Randall has come upon some of the world's rarest volumes. Papyrus scrolls, parchment scrolls, vellum and ancient paper, first editions, only editions, works of the old masters all of them have gone through his hands in his business. Here in New Castle he says there are some of the rarest books in the entire world, in the library of Mrs. Grace Phillips Johnson. Here a bibliophile finds books almost priceless in value, books that have come from strange corners of the world, centuries old, written in many languages.

It seems that silence has entered the realm of sport. At the tennis court on South Mercer street there is a huge white sign painted on a shed on one side of the court, "SILENCE". Now why? It is necessary to have absolute quiet when you sock that little ball, or does the noise of conversation ruin the court? I can understand why silence is golden when a fellow is about to make a three foot putt, or skin the eight ball into the side pocket, but why silence when a fellow is moving around constantly as he is in tennis.

Some people never seem to realize the fitness of things. A rain coat salesman wanted to give me a bargain yesterday in raincoats which he guaranteed against something or other. The guarantee was verbal and he was a stranger. There were three reasons why I didn't buy one. The first was that when I want a raincoat or a double breasted vest or a pair of ear muffs, there are a lot of lads right here in town who have an investment in this city and who deserve mine and your patronage. The second was that I have a raincoat. And the third was that what we need right now is a flock of rain and not raincoats.

Judges Hildebrand and Chambers are going to get a mounted golden eagle in the very near future, it seems. Not that the two gentlemen go around the country looking for golden eagles, or that their decisions will be influenced a whit by having one of the stately birds near them, but they're just going to get one.

It seems that some time ago a lad out on the Zellenople Road was shooting crows and noticed an unusually large crow in the flock. He sighted down on the big crow and when he picked it up, the crow turned out to be a young golden eagle, a rare bird in this or any other part of Pennsylvania.

Realizing that he had killed a protected bird he got in touch with the Game Protector "Jewey" Coen and told him, and then turned the bird over to Squire Tom Gartley of Ell-over for mounting. The squire is a taxidermist, (I hope that word is spelled right) and the golden eagle is now mounted on a stand poised as through ready for flight.

The judges were asked if they could use a golden eagle and so in the very near future they will have the specimen in the court house somewhere. Perhaps on the bench on sentence day. Then some of the boys can change the words of the Prisoner's Song. You know, "If I had the Wings of an Angel."

Another protected bird that met an untimely end some time ago was a barn owl. Barn owls are as rare as the ancient auk, and as well protected. And some lad knocked one off accidentally.

Here in Western Pennsylvania we don't brag enough. Just a minute before you draw any hasty conclusions. I mean as a people we don't brag enough about our natural scenery in this part of the state. For instance, if California had the Slippery Rock Creek scenery they would spend plenty of washers telling the world about it. The boys would organize a Slippery Rock Creek Association, the Chamber of Commerce would be flooded with literature and the magazines would carry articles on it.

Or if they had the pheasant farm

they would invite everybody within 3,000 miles to visit it. Right here in Lawrence County we have both, and how long has it been since you invited some stranger to take a peek at either of them? When you meet strangers get cheery about these things. They are worth time and money to see. Invite them out, give them directions and don't be afraid of a few superlatives. You can't go too strong on them.

Some day there will be a Slippery Rock Creek Association formed for the purpose of broadcasting the beauty of this spot to the country. It would take a little time and perhaps a little money but it would bring in thousands of visitors every year to Lawrence County.

Get out a little illustrated booklet showing McConnell's Mills, Kennedy's Mills, Heinz House Camp, Hell's Hollow, Breakneck Bridge, the beauties of the rock gorges out there, the quality of fishing, and the never ending vista of eye delighting scenery. Better shut this off right here for when I get started on writing on the Slippery Rock Creek, the typewriter runs wild.

Finds Lions Safer Than Automobiles

(International News Service) JOLON, Cal., July 9.—Lions are mere playthings in the life of Steven Avila of Jolon, but when it comes to automobiles it's a different story. Avila, professional lion killer who has come unscathed through numerous encounters with the king of beasts, fell asleep at the wheel of his automobile while driving through his home town. When he awoke, his car had overturned and several fingers of his right hand were nearly severed.

The armer now has sprays to discourage all pests that prey on vegetables. The one for tourists is composed of bird shot.

Yellowjackets' Bite Almost Proves Fatal

(International News Service) BONNEVILLE, Cal., July 9. — Stung by a yellowjacket which apparently had fed on the venom of a dead rattlesnake, Will Hawkins, Anderson Valley rancher, almost lost his life here.

Hawkins was stung on the top of the head by the insect. Almost immediately his head and face began to swell and turn black. His limbs became cold and numb and Hawkins became nauseated.

Dr. L. K. Van Allen, of Ukiah, gave emergency treatment which is believed saved Hawkins' life. The physician declared that yellowjackets that feed on dead rattlesnakes develop a poisonous sting which is almost as serious as a snake bite.

California Miner Has Real Gold Brick

(International News Service) OAKDALE, Cal., July 9. — Here's a gold brick that is a gold brick. From gold extracted in his mine near Columbia over a period of years, Louis Engelke made it into a brick, worth $4,000, which is being shipped to the mint in San Francisco. The mine still has pockets laden with the precious metal Engelke declared. He said he had no stock to sell.
